THE STRONGEST Democratic candidate now is McAdoo. James D. Phelan, of California, well liked by everybody, will put McAdoo in nomination. Glass, who will be McAdoo's heir in the convention, if "Al" Smith "kills off" McAdoo, is talking strong conservative talk.

POLITICAL talk is getting too close to the famous Burchard "R. R. R." line, foolishness that will make Democratic defeat inevitable if it continues. The American people do not like religious prejudice in any quarter.

FRANK GREENE, writing from San Pedro, Cal., reminds you of this statement made by Theodore Roosevelt at Cardinal Gibbons silver jubilee, June 5, 1911:

"Our Republic, mighty in its youth, destined to endure for ages, will see many Presidents during those ages, and it will see Presidents who are Catholics, as well as Presidents who are Protestants, Presidents who are Jews, as well as Presidents who are Gentiles." Very likely. In Thomas Jefferson it had a President that believed in no particular religion.

THE SENATE Agricultural Committee voted 11 to 5 against Ford's Muscle Shoals offer and took up Senator Norris's bill. Senators that refused Ford's offer are hurting the farmers and hurting themselves. But that doesn't console Ford, who must now find his consolation in the 146th Psalm. Verse 3 is especially recommended:

"Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man, in whom there is no help."

The unreliable son of man, in this case, seems to be Mr. Coolidge.

STATESMEN that rule New York city will begin their sessions with prayer, but can't agree on a prayer that would do in a body of Protestants, Catholics and Jews. The humble publican's prayer, "God be merciful to me a sinner," would suit most of our public officials.

A READER writes: "You talk about the Teapot Dome, but that isn't the trouble. The real trouble is in the public's dome, it doesn't think."

That is sad and solemn truth. If it were otherwise, we should have different officials.

SOMETHING frightened speculators yesterday. Stocks dropped and scattered minus signs through the list. Europe frightens Wall Street, and the fact that "commodities," things

L'FOLLETTE MAY LEAD 3RD PARTY

Senator Warns Old Organizations; Charges "Reds" Are Deceiving Progressives

Washington, May 28.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, guiding genius of the insurgent forces that control the 68th Congress, served notice today on the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties that he must be reckoned with in any calculations designed to elect a President of the United States in November.

While not announcing his candidacy for the presidency, La Follette charged both parties with failure to carry out the mandates of the voters and declared that unless

MANY FLEE ROXBURY TENEMENT FLAMES

Charles A. Duffy, a night watchman, discovered a fire in the basement of a dwelling house at No. 313 Ruggles street, Roxbury.

Duffy went through the building, arousing men, women and children. Many fled in their nightclothing.

Firemen were hampered in getting to the scene of the fire by paving blocks piled in the street, where repaving operations are under way. The flames were extinguished, however, before less than a $1,000 damage was done.

MYSTERY IN WEST END SHOOTING

War Vet Found Wounded on Roof of Tenement; Woman Is Hunted by Police

Oscar Harsenian, twenty-seven years old, a wounded World War veteran, was found lying in a pool of blood on the roof of an apartment building at No. 57 Myrtle street, West End, today.

Six feet away from Harsenian was a revolver.

Mrs. Mary Poortoian, thirty, of Mount Auburn street, Cambridge, was on the roof at the time of the shooting.

Neighbors heard three shots.

As echoes of the shots died away Mrs. Poortoian dashed from the roof to the apartment on the top floor where Harsenian roomed, washed blood from her face and ran frantically from the scene.

Police are seeking Mrs. Poortoian for questioning.

Harsenian was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital where he is on the danger list with a bullet wound in his right temple.

WOMAN FLEES SCENE.

Mrs. Poortoian is said to be the mother of three children.

As she ran from the apartment she is said to have met Catherine Grindello on the way and said:

"He shot me, then he shot himself."

Poortoian, besides being wounded in the war, was badly gassed. He has been rooming with Mr. and Mrs.

DR H. T. CRAWFORD EXPIRES ON LAWN

The body of Dr. Howard Tribou Crawford, Lexington physician, was found on the lawn of his home No. 22 Hancock street today. The doctor had been missing several hours. A search disclosed the body lying alongside a lawnmower with which it is believed he had been cutting the grass when stricken by a heart attack.

Dr. Crawford was born in Gardiner, Me., in 1874, was graduated from Boston University in 1896, and from the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy in 1899. He was a member of the Masons, and of the Old Belfry Club. Aside from a widow, two sons and one daughter survive him.

Levenson Testifies Coakley Said Former Official Talked About Mishawum Case

William J. Corcoran "got drunk" and told all he knew about the Mishawum Manor party, Daniel H. Coakley told Harry E. Levenson, it was testified today in East Cambridge Superior Court by Levenson in the Coakley-Corcoran conspiracy trial.

Levenson said he had complained to Coakley that he (Levenson) had not received a "split" of the money alleged to have been paid by movie magnates as a result of what "Brownie" Kennedy described as "a wild party."

Coakley characterized Corcoran as "a —— liar" when Levenson quoted Corcoran as saying he himself got no money.

"Corcoran's been going around bragging," the witness quoted Coakley as saying during a conference in his office. "There would be no trouble at all if he kept his damn mouth shut. He's been getting drunk, and tells all he knows."

Levenson continued his testimony under examination by District Attorney Arthur K. Reading in regard to the Mishawum Manor case.

He was asked: "What names other than that of Lillian Kingston were introduced at the hearing in

Malden Girl, "Phantom of the Hills," Tells of Dodging the Dry Agents Along Border

The "phantom of the foothills" has been caught and the question of what ale-d Boston is settled. It was pretty Marie and her fast car.

Far up in Vermont the pretty bobbed hair of Marie Bushway, twenty-three-year-old Malden rum-runner, led to her downfall and capture.

Today the nervy girl, whose 4B foot spelled sixty miles an hour in any car, is parked in the Montpelier lock-up with 723 bottles of ale and twenty-four bottles of wine she carried.

She has made her last ale-running trip from Canada to Boston. Bobbed hair proved her downfall.

Not even the two women riding with her outweighed the hunch of federal agents that the trim bobbed-hair girl was the phantom of the Vermont hills, who had eluded the authorities for months.

TELLS OF ADVENTURES.

"I would never take a man with me," declared the pretty runner today in the jail, her black eyes snapping, as she told her own story. "Never! I'd rather run alone. It's safer. All men want to do is shoot.

"My two women friends had nothing to do with this. When I started out from Malden, I invited Mrs. Mabel Shannon, who lives in Reading, to accompany me. She had no notion that I was going after liquor.

"Later, in Montgomery, I picked up Mrs. Leslie Goodhue, an old friend of mine, and promised to take her back on a visit to Boston. Anyway,

COAKLEY CALLED CORCORAN A LIAR, LEVENSON TESTIFIES

SAID HE TOLD ALL ABOUT MISHAWUM REVEL

the Woburn court following the raid on Mishawum Manor?"

Levenson has already testified that "Brownie" Kennedy, who conducted the inn known as Mishawum Manor in Woburn, was also known as Lillian Kingston.

Levenson—The names of Hiram Abrams, Lasky, Zukor, Harry Asher and Green, the movie men were introduced.

Q.—How long a time elapsed between the party at Mishawum and the hearing of Brownie Kennedy in the Woburn Court? A.—About a month.

Q.—Did you talk with Daniel H. Coakley about the Mishawum Manor case? A.—Yes.

Q.—When? A.—I can't tell the date, I can place it in another way.

Q.—Can you fix the time by any incident? A.—Yes sir.

ACCUSED CORCORAN

Q.—And by what incident?

Coakley—Let's have the time instead of the incident.

Q.—Without telling us when, tell us what the talk was about the Mishawum case? A.—I was in his office discussing another matter. I asked why I hadn't been taken care of in the Mishawum Manor case. His answer was: "You were clean forgotten in the settlement." That is the cutting up of the money. I asked: "Did you take care of Bill?" Coakley replied: "I sure did."

Q.—And by Bill who was meant? A.—William J. Corcoran. I said Corcoran told me he got no money. He replied: "He's a—— liar." Then he said: "you know there's a great deal of trouble. Corcoran's been going about bragging there would be no trouble at all if he kept his mouth shut. He's been getting drunk and telling all he knows." We discussed the situation. I don't [illegible]ll words here, but I'll tell it as [illegible]ar as I can recall. I said: "you [illegible]ad a big fee here, and this thing was good, but evidently someone was dissatisfied between you and Bill." He said: "Bill is always butting in trying to get things for himself when he does not deserve them."

STRICKEN OUT

Coakley took exceptions to Levenson's manner in answering questions after he had objected, with the remark "Is the witness going to be permitted to act as assistant district attorney on the witness stand also?"

District Attorney Reading jumped up and hotly objected to this remark and Judge Whiting ordered it stricken from the records.

Q.—Do you know a man named Heck? A.—I do.

Q.—What is his full name? A.—I tried to find out, but couldn't.

Q.—What is the last time you heard of him? A.—Six months ago.

Q.—Was he known as Professor Lee? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you talk with Corcoran and Coakley about Heck? A.—Yes, with Corcoran.

Q.—When was that? A.—In May or June, 1917. I talked with Corcoran about the money in the cases and he said Heck would keep the money in some cases, he would keep it in other cases and Coakley would keep it in some cases. Corcoran mentioned that Heck has steered a case to Coakley and that a large sum of money had been obtained from a Providence manufacturer. He said Heck handled some of the cases himself. He said I would have to stand for it and that if I didn't like it I could quit.

Q—Did you talk with Coakley about Heck? A—Yes. About a week after I talked with Corcoran I talked with Coakley in his office about Heck. I told them I thought I ought to get some money. He said he had nothing to say about it and that if I did not like it I could get out.

Q—Did you have any further talk with William J. Corcoran and Daniel H. Coakley concerning a settlement in these cases? A—Yes. In the Spring or early Summer of 1917 I talked with both of them at the Copley Square Hotel. Corcoran told me I ought to be careful what I did outside of Suffolk and Middlesex County in blackmail cases and not to go outside any other county or jurisdiction.

STEARNS CASE

Levenson testified he understood Heck got a lot of money out of the Providence manufacturer, but Coakley said he didn't get a cent.

Q—You had a conversation with both Coakley and Corcoran? A—Yes. The question came up as to what might happen in regard to the Mishawum Manor case. He said——

Q.—Who said? A.—Coakley. He said: "They haven't discovered yet that you had any part in it. If they do you can stand it off as a matter in which you furnished sureties, that's all." There was a great deal of conversation but not about cases so far mentioned.

Q.—Did you talk with Mr. Corcoran or Mr. Coakley about the Stearns case? A.—I did.

'Dead' Air in Tropics Investigated by Radio Experts

Mexico City, May 28.—Delegates to the Telegraph Congress were told by President Obregon that the desire of his country is to promote communication as a means of better understanding with all the countries of America.

Many difficult problems of land wires and the radio were discussed by army and navy experts at today's session. Among them were the mysterious blank spaces in the tropics over which radio waves have not yet been transmitted. There are several of these along the equator and over Caribbean Sea.

Harry Semonian at the Myrtle street address.

Police say Harsenian and Mrs. Poortolan were sweethearts.

She is said by neighbors to have been a frequent visitor of the wounded man.

Examination by the police disclosed fifteen bullets of the same calibre as the tragedy revolver in the coat pocket of Harsenian.

GUN SIX FEET AWAY.

What the police are anxious to learn from Mrs. Poortolan is how the blood came to be on her face and how the gun happened to be lying six feet from the prostrate form of Harsenian.

In the drawer of a bureau in Harsniman's room was found a letter relating to the payment of government insurance which police think may throw some light on the tragedy.

The letter reads:

BOBBED LOCKS TRAPPED GIRL RUM-RUNNER

Maiden Miss Tells Own Story of Adventurous Career as "Phantom of the Hills"

I was sort of making a pleasure trip out of this. But it was what I had always done—take women with me. Then it did not look suspicious.

"I never had a gun—don't believe in them. The only weapon I had was a monkey-wrench. I had that for the hi-jackers, if they ever jumped on the running board of my car.

"I've been doing this for about two years, I guess. I never had any trouble. I used to run down through New York State, but the State troopers up there now are bad men to run up against.

"For several months I have been running through Vermont. But, whew! This is a bad State to get caught in. You've got to pay and pay good if you're caught, I understand.

"Yes, I've been shot at. Once I had a very narrow escape. Some sheriffs laid in wait for me. When I went by, they tried to trap me. But I stepped on it and got away. They opened fire and two bullets pierced the gasoline tank.

"I had to laugh, though. I would have been in a serious fix, but I only had a little way to go from there. Then I had the gasoline tank repaired and got through all right with the load.

"I'm in this all alone. I know the ropes and I'm not worrying. Never mind how I happened to start rum-running. I just naturally started, that's all. I kept it up because there was no reason why I should stop—not until just now when I am caught.

"That was my idea anyway. As long as nothing came up, I would keep on running. But in all my experience I have never endangered the life of anyone, excepting myself. I guess I might have got by this time if I wanted to take a real big chance. But I had two women with me.

"I used to make this run ordinarily in a couple of days. The whole trip would cost about $50, if I didn't meet with hard luck. I stopped at hotels. No camping out for mine.

WINS FAME AS "PHANTOM."

"It was just the idea of adventure, I guess, that made me do this work. I like the outdoors, too. Be a stenographer or bookkeeper? Never!"

The lady rum-runner disclosed that she ran ale into Boston because whiskey and gin have flooded the city from ships off the coast. Ale and beer are more bulky, and the ships will not handle it. So she ran it down and found a ready and lucrative market.

Born in Vermont, she knew every road and lane off the main highways, and used this knowledge so successfully to elude the authorities that she became known as the "phantom of the foothills."

Her bobbed hair betrayed her, however. The phantom rum-runner was known to have bobbed hair. Three prohibition agents had stopped their car just outside Montpelier.

Miss Bushway's high-powered car sped by. They saw the bobbed hair and followed after, out of curiosity. Miss Bushway made the mistake of stepping hard on the "go-ahead button."

The agents followed and blocked the road with their car. It was "curtains" for Marie. She might have escaped if she took the long chance.

But Marie is chivalrous. She respects the weaker sex. Two women were with her and she gave up the flight.

LOST GIRL HOME

duction warrant out for him if the girl had not returned by noon today.

The aunt has forgiven her niece and has given her consent to the marriage. The couple have decided to take out a license immediately at City Hall, so Boxing Tom can be a proud hubby before he sails overseas.

Patrolman James Hinchey of the Dudley street station found all this out today after he saw Ruth entering her aunt's home in Roxbury.

The policeman investigated. It was Ruth. She had been staying with Kirby's sister in Marshfield street, Roxbury, she said. The aunt forgave her and consented to the marriage. Now everything's going to be all right—apparently.

The feud, now dead, between the boxer and his sweetheart's aunt broke out into open warfare when the aunt adopted squared circle tactics and smote the ringster on the jaw after he had denied abducting the girl.

The affair happened near the Dudley street police station after officers had refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of the boxer on the aunt's charges of abduction.

Meeting Kirby unexpectedly, Mrs. Burns declared:

"I give you until tomorrow to bring back my little girl."

[illegible]MAZES BOXER.

While Kirby was [illegible] stating re[illegible]ntly [illegible] knew nothing of the disappearance of the girl, who is a telephone operator at Brookline exchange and lives with her aunt, Mrs. Burns suddenly drew back her fist and to the amazement of the boxer, struck him squarely on the jaw.

This outlet to her feeling toward Kirby, however, seemingly served to make Mrs. Burns amenable to peace negotiations. A long conference followed with the boxer nursing the sting of the little woman's blow.

Then Mrs. Burns announced that she would give her consent to the marriage of Tom and Ruth if the girl returns home. It was her refusal that led the girl to disappear a few days ago.

Canadian "Bootleg" Fights Tax on His Profits

Ottawa, May 28.—Should the hard-working bootlegger be forced to pay income tax on profits gained in his trade?

Cecil R. Smith, a Windsor, Ont., garage proprietor contended in the Exchequer Court that such profits were not subject to taxation, inasmuch as the State could not recognize an illegal occupation.

The government argued to the contrary; judgment was reserved.

EX-CONVICT HELD IN BIG GEM THEFT

Portland, Me., May 28.—Charged with the larceny of $20,000 worth of uncut diamonds from the jewelry store of William Senter & Co. on Exchange street, four years ago, Maurice Handelman, of Worcester, released convict, was arraigned in Superior Court, and held under bonds of $5,000 for appearance later in the term.

THREE WOMEN, 4 MEN, SEIZED IN HOLDUP

Boston Suspects in Robbery of Bankmen Arrested on Tip From Holliston

Acting on a tip from the authorities at Holliston, Boston police rounded up four men and three women in connection with the holdup and robbery of the Framingham Trust Company messenger on the Holliston road, Monday.

One man and a woman were taken in an automobile on Ruggles street and later, acting on information given by this couple, inspectors surrounded the house at No. 2161 Washington street, Roxbury, arresting three men and two women.

SHACKLED IN WOODS.

Three men in a big car held up Waldron Caldwell, messenger of the Framingham bank while he was returning to Framingham after having collected $1,000 and a $500 check in Holliston.

The bandits forced the messenger's car into the woods, shackled him to a rear wheel and made their escape with the money.

The authorities of Holliston, after an investigation, came to Boston and selected pictures from the Rogues' Gallery and a few hours later George T. Sexton, twenty-four years old, of No. 31 Clarence street, Roxbury, and Mrs. Catherine Sadler, thirty, of No. 2131 Washington street, were arrested in an automobile.

FIVE SEIZED IN RAID.

An hour after they were questioned inspectors surrounded the house on Washington street. They arrested William F. Hurley, twenty-nine, of No. 61 Magazine street, Roxbury, who claims he is chauffeur for Building Inspector Mahoney. Mrs. Edna Burrett, twenty-three, and Mrs. Mary Turner, twenty-two, who live in the Washington street house, were also taken. Later Joseph T. Kelley, twenty-nine, of No. 2 Dearborn street, Roxbury, was arrested.

The Sadler woman and the four men were held as suspicious persons. The Burrett and Turner women were finger-printed and permitted to return to their homes.

An effort will be made to have the Framingham cashier identify some of the suspects as the men that participated in the robbery. According to the police, several of the prisoners have police records.

"Petters" Are Banned by College Girls, Says Writer

"The man who doesn't eventually try to 'pet' is a rare specimen and also a thorough diplomat," declared the contributor in the article entitled "The He-Petter." "This type lends zest to the game—wonder and intrigue.

'HEART BROKEN' LYNN WIFE TAKES POISON

This note found in a woman's handbag in a Fall River lodging house told the story of the suicide attempt of Mrs. Eleanor Parshley, thirty-one years old, of No. 28 Pond street, Lynn.

Mrs. Parshley is dying at the Union Hospital, Fall River, from poison.

At the hospital, the woman told the police that the trouble between her and her relatives had brought about a separation from her husband, George.

She was found in a room in the Bellevue House, Third street, Fall River, two hours after she had engaged it.

Relatives of the woman in Lynn denied that there had been any trouble between them that would cause her to seek to end her life. The "Bill" to whom the note referred, they said, was William Pettipas of No. 28 Pond street, Lynn, brother-in-law of the woman.

GIRL CLERK GETS ALL THE THRILLS OF A MILLIONAIRE FOR A DAY

'CINDERELLA' HAS HER DAY OF OPULENCE

JOSEPHINE REGAN DINES IN STYLE

FEELS HOW IT IS TO BE WEALTHY

Mansion, Rolls-Royce, Butler and Maid, All Hers to Command

If—

You'd never been in a mansion,

Never seen a butler,

Never had a ride in a Rolls-Royce,

Never been THE girl,

Never worn the kind of clothes you see on a movie star,

And someone told you for one day you could have all those things, how would you feel?

The Boston American took over the Commonwealth avenue mansion owned by Alexander Bannwart that is rented in part or in whole to people desiring to entertain in surroundings of wealth and invited Josephine Regan, a little girl who works in an office, to be their guest and a millionairess for a day. Miss Regan tells her experience in today's Boston American.

By JOSEPHINE REGAN

I wonder if Cinderella felt this way?

When the prince disappeared and the golden coach turned into a street car I'll bet she felt just the way I do, that "It was great while it lasted."

When they came up to me and said, "Say girlie, how would you like to be a millionaire for a day?" I came right back, "Can you see any hayseed on me?"

But it wasn't a joke. They honestly meant it. I could be if I wanted it. And I was. Oh boy!

STARTS WITH MARCELLE.

The reason I know I didn't dream it is because I have still got the marcelle wave in my hair. They told me I could have anything I wanted and I said, "I want a wave." I just washed my hair and I can't do anything with it." Nobody shook a wand or blew on a lamp, they just had an expert come in and marcelle my hair.

"Now what?"

I still thought there was a joker so I tried them out. "I'd like some clothes." I got them. I stood in front of a mirror feeling scared enough so my knees wabbled and a lot of salesladies brought out all kinds of dresses. Fur on them and hats I used to look at and never thought I'd wear.

RIDES IN A ROLLS ROYCE.

A couple of times when they were putting on these swell dresses I almost asked the price, but I remembered that when you're rich money don't mean anything, so I tried to act like I never heard of a bargain basement.

They no sooner had me looking like a million dollars when up drives a Rolls-Royce and before I knew where I was, I was on the inside looking out. Me in a Rolls-Royce. Honest, I never thought it would happen.

As we tooled up Commonwealth avenue with little Josephine sitting back on the upholstery, head up, chin in, I wished that we'd pass everyone I ever knew. We didn't. There wasn't a soul to see me. If I'd been wearing burlap and riding in a junk wagon I wouldn't have missed the family cat.

SCARED BY BUTLER.

One look at that gray stone front on Commonwealth avenue gave me the wobbles all over again. At lunch I was so scared of the butler that when he said, "Rolls, miss?" I said, "Sure, didn't think it was a Ford did you?" Miss Paul and Mr. Bannwart laughed as though I'd intended to be funny, so I acted the same way.

The lunch was fine, but I couldn't tell whether I was eating a salad or a steak, I was so worried about using the right fork.

A lot of college boys came in. The kind that really went to college, and we played and danced and sang. It may be the only time it ever happened to me, but for once in my life I knew how these "debs" or "dubs" or whatever they call them for short, must feel. The clothes had a lot to do with it. Knowing that I was dressed as good as the swells made me feel that I was as good as the swells.

When they passed out the tea I said I wouldn't have any.

HER FIRST EVENING GOWN.

"No tea, Miss Regan?" Miss Paul says to me.

"No ma'm, I don't care for it," I answers, but the truth is I didn't want to try to balance the cup on a saucer without a table under it.

We didn't have supper at night, we had dinner with patty-de—that stuff they order in musical comedies.

Dinner over we adjourned to the drawing room for coffee. I didn't have any of that, either, for the same reason as before. We were all in evening dress. I used to think it would seem awful chilly with so little on near the shoulders, but it isn't.

Another thing I used to think was that Rudolph Valentino was the handsomest man in the world, but he isn't. The man who took me to the theatre suited me O. K. A tall man, with hair that looks like "slikum." We saw a good show, but I didn't pay much attention to it. It was the first time I ever sat in the orchestra. I never knew the second balcony was so high.

It's over now. I just took a last feel of the white fur on the white coat, packed everything away and shut the cover down on the box. That's "lights on" for my little play, but I suppose it will be a long time before I'll stop saying to people, "Well, now, the time I rode in a Rolls-Royce. . . ."

JAP REGENT SANCTIONS PROTEST

Extraordinary Proceeding in Forwarding Formal Stand Against Exclusion Act

Tokio, May 28 (A.P.)—Foreign Minister Matsui today asked and obtained the assent of the Prince Regent to the forwarding of Japan's protest against American enactment of the immigration bill barring Japanese.

The proceeding was extraordinary and is interpreted as indicating that unusual importance was attached to the document.

The Foreign Minister went to the Imperial Palace immediately after the extraordinary Cabinet session, called yesterday to give final approval to the protest [illegible]. The regent sanctioned the protest.

The Foreign Office has cabled Ambassador Hanihara permission to return to Japan as soon as Japan's protest against the exclusion provision of the immigration bill, upon which the Cabinet acted today, was finally dealt with.

REPEATED REQUESTS.

Officially, he is merely taking a vacation, but oFreign Office officials admit there is no chance of his return to Washington.

It would not be proper, they explain, to speak of resignation, since he is expected to remain in the foreign service. He is merely [illegible] a change of post.

A bitter editorial outburst marks the final enactment of the American immigration bill including the exclusion of Japanese. A majority of the newspapers express disappointment with the action of President Coolidge and call his statement following his signing of the bill unconvincing and unsatisfactory.

"MOST UNREASONABLE."

"The statement," says the Hochi, "may satisfy America, but never the Japanese. If the President had been of the same calibre as Lincoln he would have braved opposition and vetoed the most unreasonable legislation Congress ever passed.

"The President, however, has Japanese sympathy, since he did his best under the circumstances to oppose the anti-Japanese agitation.

"The point at issue is not the admission of Japanese immigrants, but whether Japan is accorded the same treatment as other nations. The American action makes the Japanese doubt the existence of international good faith and the grave consequences which Ambassador Hanihara predicted will undoubtedly follow."

INVALIDS FORCED OUT BY FLAMES

Three members of a Charlestown family, convalescing from injuries, were forced to flee from their home at No. 8 Joiner street, Charlestown, during a fire, which destroyed the contents of the first floor apartment. Patrick Morrissey, convalescing from a broken leg, hobbled out of the house to sound an alarm. Mrs. Mary Morrissey, who has been suffering from a fractured ankle, and her daughter, who recently returned from the hospital after receiving treatment for a broken hip, reached the street.

ROSE TRADING CO. OFFICIALS HELD

Five men arrested on charges of conspiracy and larceny of clothing from freight cars in Worcester were arraigned in Federal Court and held in $2,500 bail each. Four of them, Louis M. Rose, J. Robert Clark, Hyman Sochat and Bernard Turchon, all of Boston, were released on bail. Morris Levenson of Worcester was unable to furnish bonds and was locked up.

All are connected with the Rose Trading Company, auctioneers of No. 228 Harrison avenue.

$200,000 TO SPEND ON N. Y. CONVENTION

New York, May 28—For the entertainment of delegates and visitors to the national Democratic convention the board of estimate has appropriated $200,000 and approved plans for the decoration of the principal thoroughfares of the city.

Considerable discussion attended the passage of the appropriation by a 57 to 1 vote. The single dissenter was Alderman Bruce N. Falconer, Republican, who maintained that $25,000 would be sufficient to spend on the Democrats.

Fifth avenue, from Washington square to 60th street, will be converted into an "Avenue of States" for the convention.

BOY SLAYER SAVED FROM CROWD

Gerrish Murderer Arraigned in Private Instead of in Court as at First Planned

Ellsworth, Me., May 28.—The strategy of Sheriff Ward A. Wescott of Hancock county frustrated the plan of a mob of 600 enraged citizens to take the law into their own hands and visit quick justice on Roland MacDonald, fifteen-year-old self-confessed slayer of Louise Gerrish, nineteen-year-old school teacher.

The mob, which included many women, gathered in front of the county jail here when it was known the young slayer was to be taken to the Municipal Court for arraignment.

It was originally planned to have the arraignment in the court room at 2:30 p. m., but when Sheriff Wescott saw the mob about the jail and learned that it was planned to seize and either lynch him on the spot or take him to Winter Harbor, the home of the slain girl, the sheriff hastily changed his plans.

There was only the sheriff and several Boston detectives to guard the prisoner. Not until 4:30 o'clock was the lad taken from his cell and rushed through a rear door of the jail into an automobile. The crowd learned the prisoner was being taken to the Municipal Court. It surged toward that building when it was seen the sheriff and his prisoner had left the jail.

Instead of the prisoner being taken to the Municipal Court, however, he was slipped into the office of Judge Harry L. Crabtree, where he was quickly arraigned, held without bail for the action of the grand jury, and then spirited back to the jail.

As young MacDonald keeps adding to the details of the slaying of the pretty young teacher, the horror of the country-side grows apace with the sordid, cold-blooded crime the boy coolly discusses.

The fact that the teacher's body was fully undressed after the murder and the clothing then restored to the body after which it was replaced in the grave with the exception of a silk undergarment, which at the last moment was thrown across the girl's face as she lay in the shallow grave presented a baffling angle to the case.

Today young MacDonald cleared that up.

"After I shot her and killed her I pulled the body through the fence, propped it under a tree and took her watch and money and then went home," he told the authorities.

UNDRESSES BODY.

"The next morning I knew I'd have to bury the body, so after I stole a shovel I went back and pulled the body farther into the woods. Then I took off all the clothes. The only time I was scared was when I had off all her clothes. The body was all blue and was cold like ice. I got scared for fair, then, and thought I'd better dress her again. I did, but I forgot to put one silk thing on her.

"After I had all the rest of the clothes on except that one piece I dug the grave, shoved her body in and then threw that silk thing in on top of the face. I hurried up and covered the body with dirt and got away from there."

It was a dollar bill taken from the purse of the murdered girl that finally fastened the crime on young MacDonald, according to the detectives in charge of the case.

The day before the murder, Miss Gerrish was in the store of Frank Dunham at Amherst Corner.

Miss Gerrish left her open purse lying on the counter. Mr. Dunham found the purse later on. In it was a new one-dollar bill, folded lengthwise then doubled over. The purse was returned to Miss Gerrish.

Halibut Cargo Sells for $16,000; Crew Gets $400 Each

When the schooner Ingomar tied up to the South Boston fish pier, Captain Olsen unloaded 47,000 pounds of fresh halibut for which he received $16,000, and each of the crew received $400. This trip is said to be one of the most profitable on record in the halibut fishery.

Detachments of police, soldiers, sailors and marines will escort the body to Woodlawn Cemetery. There will be delegations from nearly fifty clubs and other organizations.

The pallbearers include Charles M. Schwab, Augustus Thomas, Henry Hadley, Mehan Franko, John Philip Sousa, Nathan Burkan, Max Dreyfus, Morgan J. O'Brien, Victor J. Dowling, Daniel F. Cohalan, James J. O'Gorman, Walter W. Price, Col. [illegible] H. H. Treadwell, Calvin C. [illegible] and Emil Winter of Pittsburgh.

BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH BY CAR

Firemen fought for several minutes in a vain attempt to remove eight-year-old Archibald Matthews, colored, of No. 44 Windsor street, Cambridge, from under a one-man street car before he was crushed to death.

The boy was trying to recover his hat when he ran directly in front of the car at Main and Windsor streets, Cambridge. The operator, Michael McTigue, of No. 136 North Harvard street, Allston, was unable to bring his car to a stop quickly enough to save the youngster.

ROB SAFE IN EAST BOSTON

Burglars Use Sledge Hammers and Get Away With $800 in Cash

Three men entered the Johnson Wet Wash Laundry at Swift and Bennington streets, East Boston, early today, and robbed the safe of $800.

Entrance was gained through a window while the watchman was absent. The safe was literally smashed to pieces with a large sledge hammer.

The police have a good description of the burglars and expect to make an arrest soon.

MELROSE WOMAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Miss Nellie Barrett of No. 64 Frost avenue, Melrose Highlands, was struck by an automobile in Salem street, Medford, near the Fellsway. She was removed to Malden Hospital with a fractured skull and other injuries. Her name was on the danger list.

The automobile was driven by Ralph P. De Ceasa, thirtythree years old, of No. 51 Upham street, Melrose.

FIREBUG IN N. Y. SETS 6TH BLAZE

Two Persons Injured Fleeing Tenement Fire; Others Have Narrow Escapes

New York, May 28.—Two persons were injured in a tenement fire today believed to have been of incendiary origin, the sixth blaze in the greater city laid to a pyromaniac in the last twenty-four hours.

Today's fire at Columbus avenue and 65th street had its origin beneath a hallway staircase, as was the case in three of four fires in Harlem yesterday in which four negroes lost their lives.

The lives of half a hundred tenants in a Brooklyn tenement were endangered in another alleged incendiary fire yesterday.

Today's fire spread so rapidly that virtually all the tenants had to flee down the fire escape. A number of others were carried to the streets by patrolmen and one man saved his life by scaling his way down the outside wall from the fourth to the first floor, from which he jumped to the street and sustained internal hurts.

6-WEEKS' WAIT FOR BONUS BLANKS

Veterans Wasting Time by Writing to Washington for Applications

The Boston American-Advertiser bonus bureau learns from Washington that the War Department, Navy Department, Veterans' Bureau and other departments of the Government are still being flooded with inquiries on obtaining and filling out the official applicaton for the adjusted compensation provided for World War veterans.

These applications will not be ready for general distribution for approximately six weks. They will then be distributed through the mails and by the bureaus being established all over the country by the Hearst newspapers, the American Legion and other organizations.

After they have been filled out the applications may be forwarded to the War or Navy Department at Washington by the applicants themselves, or by the bureaus at which at which they are filled out.

If an applicant experiences any difficulty in understanding the questions or instructions on his blank he will be able to get the answer to his inquiry at once at American-Advertiser Bureau.

This does not mean that an applicant should write to the War Department for information about his own service record which he himself has forgotten. This absolutely should not be done, as it will require extra searching through the records of the department.

Each applicant should answer the questions as well as he is able and when the application is received at the war department, the information will be checked from the official records. Veterans are again urged to stop writing for application blanks. As soon as they are ready for distribution the blanks will be sent out.

Captains in the army and lieutenants in the navy are eligible for the bonus if they come under the head of emergency officers, that is officers who entered the service for the war. Graduates of West Point and Annapolis are not included in this classification.

THREE PERSONS DIE IN HAITI QUAKE

A church steeple was demolished and the police barracks were badly damaged.

Tin-Type Booth to Feature Italian Street Fair, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

BACK in the days of '80, it was considered a huge lark for Grandma — charmingly arrayed in crinolines—and her beau to have their "tin-types" taken.

In those dear, dead days it was nearly as exciting to be "tin-typed" at the county fair or at the beach as it is nowadays to do a Barney Oldfield along the boulevards or to have your aviator beau take you for a ride through the clouds with a few fancy tailspins thrown in when things become a bit dull.

Harriet Boyden

Tin-types are hardly the fashion these days. In fact, they're quite a novelty, so Mrs. F. Reed Estabrook and Mrs. Chandler Hovey have seen to it that anyone who wants to be "tin-typed" may have their wish fulfilled.

Mrs. Estabrook and Mrs. Hovey have charge of the colorful Italian street fair and fete, which is to be held on Saturday, June 7, at the Chestnut Hill estate of the Edwin S. Websters.

Among the hundred and one attractions which promise to make the affair unusually colorful and successful, will be the "tin-type" booth.

Many other features of the fair have already been mentioned in these columns, including the long line of booths filled with all manner of practical and pretty articles, the pony rides for youngsters, the amusement "park" boasting all sorts of games for grown-ups as well as their offspring, the tennis tournament, and the dancing under a marquee to be erected for the day.

The Webster estate has never before been opened to the general public, so that on the 7th everyone will have an opportunity to view the lovely grounds and gardens of this magnificent place.

Miss Polly Webster heads a group of society maids who will assist at the fete, the band including the Misses Harriet Boyden, Barbara Bradford, Nell Baldwin, Margaret Bazeley, Rosamond Blanchard, Margaret Curtis, Hannah Hallowell, Mary Otis, Louise, Thayer, Isabel Thorndike and Dorothy Weld.

FREDDY PRINCE, Jr., has been elected captain of the Myopia Hunt Club's crack polo team, succeeding in this capacity Freddy Ayer.

Freddy Prince, Jr.

Mr. Prince, who has recently returned to "Princemere" with the Freddy Princes, Sr., following a Winter at the Prince estate in Pau, is one of the best wielders of the mallet hereabouts. Last Fall he played in the international matches held at Philadelphia and on Long Island.

Mr. Prince, Sr., who is quite as keenly devoted to the sport as his son, will play on the Myopia team, as will also the Burrage brothers, Albert, Jr., and Russell, Neil W. Rice, Dudley P. Rogers, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., Harry P. McKean, Tom Mandell and Freddy Ayer.

WHY DO THEY SAY "LITTLE"?

NEARLY EVERYBODY speaks of this, or that, "little dress." And when you look at the "little dress" you find that it is full-grown. Now I'll tell you about some "little dresses" I found.

CREPE-SATIN, in navy or brown, has two pleated panels of georgette same color, making an apron in front. Only $15.00. Several rows of ribbon loops at bottom of apron. One row around edge of cap sleeves and round neck. Bead ornament in center, at waistline. Removable.

HAND EMBROIDERY, silk floss, unusual flower design, borders the white yoke of striking red crepe de Chine dress. Straight-line, few gathers at each hip, string belt. Long, narrow strip of red down front, trimmed with white buttons. Practically no sleeves. $18.75. Green, with white, also. Looks expensive. Good quality, well made. Stylish.

PLEATED yellow silk crepe is attached to shallow yoke making short sleeves. Edges of yoke bound with white. String belt. Straight line. $18.75. Another is white, with a red yoke, Cool. Summery. Attractive.

WHITE CREPE DE CHINE makes several attractive models. $15.00. Nice for graduation, then have them dyed in the fall. One style has permanent pleating, another, tucks; another, lace. Simple, as well as dressy. Good lines. Well made.

A SMART BLACK satin dress with tucked net collar and oblong deep vest is also $15.00. The skirt is trimmed with squares of white wool, in double rows of chain stitching. String belt. Short sleeves. Very smart.

A SPORTS COAT of woolly stuff is lined throughout. Becoming tan. Deep cuffs, trimmed with one bone button. Two-button fastening, turn back collar, square corners. Fine for motoring, or at the beach. $15.00. Seven-eighths length.

IMPORTED OVER-BLOUSES of finest voile come in lovely yellow, orchid or white. Collar of V-shaped neck made of 3-inch bands overlapping, so that hand-bound, rounded edges give a petal effect. Cuffs on long sleeves made same way. Pleats and fine tucks, 5 of each, are on either side of the front and back. Charming. Unusual. $5.00.

OVER-BLOUSES, imported, fasten at each side of waist band with 2 buttons. V-shaped neck, square collar, quantities of hand-drawn work in pretty pattern, on the front. Collar is hemstitched. Fine quality voile. $7.50. White, heavenly green, or delicate pink.

A SLEEVELESS SWEATER, golf style, has a plain white back and is black-and-gray striped across bottom of front, where pearl buttons fasten it. Armholes and front bound with black. Mohair, good quality, well made. $2.98.

GOLF SWEATERS, white, with long sleeves, fasten with 5 pearl buttons. Bound with black-striped white fibre silk. Patch pockets, one on each side, also bound with same trimming. Fine mohair, beautifully knitted in plain knitting stitch. Sleeve cuffs unusual pattern. $5.00. Also in yellow, blue or green, with harmonizing binding. Stylish. Good value.

PROTECT YOUR DRESSES by wearing a white gum apron. On white muslin top, with tie band. 75 cents. Good size. Saves pressing in hot weather. Pleats stay in.

STUBBY UMBRELLAS have fancy decorated wooden handles, with braided leather straps drawn through, to hold by. Amber bakalite at tip. Purple, blue, or green silk. Well made. Good quality, $5.00 at one of the smartest shops. Usually cost more.

URGES DEMOCRATS PASS FARMERS' BILL

Washington, May 28.—The Democratic party was called upon today by Carl Vrooman, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, "to assume leadership and, with the aid of the Progressive Republicans, enact an effective farmers' surplus export bill." In a prepared address before the National Popular Government League, Mr. Vrooman described the McNary Haugen bill as "poor substitute for the remedial legislation required by the farmers" which, however, "may do some good." The Norris-Sinclair bill, he said was "an excellent measure, which unfortunately had some features" making it "unacceptable to many" friends of such legislation.

DENBY REVEALS HOW ENGLAND TRICKED U. S.

Navy Waiting Year for Congress to Raise Range of Battleships

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

Washington, May 28 (Universal).—English diplomats prevailed upon Edwin Denby, when he was Secretary of the Navy, to stop the plans authorized by Congress to put Uncle Sam's fleet of battleships on a par with the great dreadnaughts of the British Royal Navy.

The facts in this situation were told to Universal Service by Denby himself.

Secretary Hughes and his American associates in the Washington arms conference matched their wits against the British and lost.

The arms agreement designated the classes of battleships that could be retained for use by the navies of the world powers.

UNCLE SAM WAKES UP.

Uncle Sam awoke to discover that the ships of shortest range in the twenty-two battleships allowed Great Britain could fire 23,000 yards, while seven of America's fleet could fire only slightly more than 20,000 yards, a difference of about two miles. In a fleet engagement, one-third of America's battleships would be hopelessly out of it.

Secretary Denby went to the last Congress and told his story. Congress immediately appropriated $6,500,000 to elevate the turret guns of thirteen battleships in order to overcome the serious handicap.

Before Denby started to overcome that disadvantage, British diplomats sent word to him that he had made a mistake. What they said to him was in substance this:

"Mr. Denby, you misinformed Congress when you said our battleships can outfire yours three miles. It is only two miles."

STILL OUTRANGED.

Denby called the situation to the attention of the present Congress. He said in his last report before retiring: "In view of the fact that Congress was not fully and correctly informed when appropriating for the increased elevation of our turret guns, this department decided not to use the money so appropriated until Congress had an opportunity to express its will in the matter.

More than a year has elapsed. Nothing has been done. The $6,500,000 appropriated by the last Congress will be unavailable unless the present Congress authorizes such an expenditure in the short time left before adjournment.

Josephus Daniels declares that the primary fault rests with Messrs. Hughes, Root, Lodge and Underwood, who, he said, declined to accept the advice of the naval experts, but relied upon their own ability to cope with England and Japan.

BRIDE, 71, MADE ALL PLANS FOR WEDDING

Weymouth Man, 41, Fights Suit to Annul Marriage to Aged Heiress

All arrangements for the marriage of Mrs. Laura J. Brown, seventy-one years old, to George F. Brown, Weymouth furniture mover, who is forty-one, were taken care of by the bride, according to Brown's testimony in Middlesex Superior Court before Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall.

Mrs Laura J. Brown

Brown is contesting the petition of Charles Hapgood of Brookline, Mrs. Brown's guardian, for annulment of the marriage which took place last year.

The wife was adjudged insane last November, and is confined in a private home in Belmont. She is one of three heirs to an estate of more than $150,000.

WHEN THEY FIRST MET.

Brown told of first meeting her while she was visiting in Weymouth. He received an invitation to visit her, he said, and did so three or four nights a week.

In June of last year the woman, who has a son forty-four years old, left Weymouth to go to Vermont. In July, Brown said, he followed her there and remained eight or nine days. Then, while relatives of the woman thought she was still in Vermont, she hustled back to Weymouth and on August 30, 1923, married the furniture mover.

"My wife and my mother made all arrangements for the wedding," Brown testified. "I was too busy working and my employer wouldn't let me off long enough to get the marriage license."

ON THE HONEYMOON.

Brown said that after the wedding he went to visit his wife's sister in Somerville. He admitted that was the only honeymoon they went on.

After several weeks in Somerville Mrs. Brown hired, and paid for, a furnished room, the husband stated. Shortly afterward they both went back to Weymouth to live.

He denied that he had known Mrs. Brown was heir to any large amount of property.

Clayton Merchant, town clerk of Weymouth, testified that Mrs. Brown acted all right when she applied for the marriage license and that she didn't look over the age of fifty-three given in the application.

RELIED ON COUNSEL.

Dr. Ralph Brock, her son, was questioned as to why he failed to bring guardianship proceedings until after his mother married. Brock said she knew he was insane in April of last year, but relied on counsel to take action and that counsel didn't suggest applying for a guardian until after the marriage to Brown.

Judge Hall took the case under advisement following arguments by Attorney Allen Lawson, representing Brown, and Attorney Thomas J. Boynton, representing the guardian.

WARD'S FINE BREAD

Here's the new loaf

Made from a good old recipe—the favorite recipe of our founder

We have given this new loaf our own name—Ward's Fine Bread—that's how much we think of it. It is really your loaf because, before we offered it publicly, we had a number of women come in and test it for taste—in comparison with the leading loaves of bread, our own and others.

9 out of 10 picked this new loaf as the best tasting bread.

But its taste isn't all—it is full of nourishment. We've made it as rich and nourishing as we could.

We admit that our own employees prefer it to all our other loaves.

Please don't misunderstand us. It isn't a stunt loaf. It is just extra good—a real, honest loaf of bread, containing the things that belong in bread, and nothing else.

If you use bread for sandwiches and want those sandwiches to be substantial and nourishing, this loaf will please you. If you eat toast for breakfast in the morning and want that toast to be delicious, this loaf will satisfy you. If you have children and are concerned about their nourishment, you'll be particularly pleased with this new loaf—it's a substantial food and tastes good to them.

You'll like this loaf because it slices without crumbling. If there's one or two in the family, and you want bread that keeps well, you'll certainly like this new loaf—the extra milk and shortening prevent it from drying out quickly.

Think of this loaf as just a real, honest loaf of bread—made extra good.

We can't say it is your taste in bread until you've tried it, because we don't know just what your taste is. But when you have tried it, we wish you would write and tell us if it is your taste in bread, so that we will know whether we have pleased you.

Here's the Champion Fish Story of the Year

Harrisburg, Pa., May 28.—Stanley Cole of Watrous is the champion rodless, lineless and baitless fisherman of this section. However, his gain, a sixteen-inch brown trout, was a fish hawk's loss.

Standing on the bank of a branch of Pine Creek, Cole watched the bird circle over the stream, and, as it dived to the water, he gave a terrific yell, at the same time throwing a stone, which hit the water just as the hawk seized the fish. In its fright the bird flew directly at Cole and dropped the fish at his feet.

Examination of the trout disclosed three deep holes in its back caused by the hawk's talons.

SCANDALS HURT TAX CUT, FILM MEN ARE TOLD

Minds of Congressmen Set Against Relief, Says President Cohen

Scandal stories from Hollywood and public disapproval of the high salaries paid picture actors and actresses set the minds of Congressmen against relief for the motion picture exhibitors by tax reduction, President Sydney M. Cohen of the Moving Picture Theatre Owners' Association, told members of that body at the opening of their annual convention at the Copley-Plaza.

The fight against the staggering amusement tax of $72,000,000 set upon the amusement industry in America, of which $35,000,000 was paid by the motion pictures, was described by Cohen.

More than $15,000,000 has been saved exhibitors and patrons of motion pictures so far, Cohen declared, and a yearly saving of $6,700,000 could be counted upon, through the efforts of the national body of exhibitors.

A protest against the "iniquitous practices of producers with unesthetical and greedy habits," was voiced by the convention exhibitors, who numbered more than 500 theatre owners from all parts of the United States and Canada.

The appointment of a national representative at Washington, to sit in at Congressional meetings and guard the interest of exhibitors against "reformers" and others inimical to the industry, was urged by President Cohen.

Miss Louella O. Parsons, motion picture editor of the New York American, representing William Randolph Hearst, one of the country's greatest motion picture producers, at the convention, will deliver an address today.

National election of officers will take place Thursday morning, the closing day of the conference.

BRITISH ACT TO SAVE MAN SOVIET DOOMS

London, May 28.—The Daily Express says the government has instructed the British representative in Moscow to "intervene unofficially" in the hope of saving the life of Engineer Jacobson, chief of the Atbasarsky copper mines, who was recently sentenced to death by a Soviet tribunal for giving information to the former owners of the property, residing in England. The representations for pardon are to be made, the paper says, on the grounds of humanity.

2 SOMERVILLE BOY BURGLARS CAPTURED

Two boy burglars were captured in the M. O'Keeffe store at No. 84 Broadway, Somerville, after they had concealed themselves in the refrigerator of the store behind some tubs of butter.

The boys gave their names as Joseph McLaughlin, fifteen years old, of No. 17 Sprague street, Charlestown, and Thomas M. Buckley, fifteen years old, of No. 10 Belmont street, Charlestown.

MILDRED DRAKE

The Drake girl, of No. 171 West Sixth street, South Boston, is recovering at her home from wounds received when she was bitten by a dog on Farragut road, South Boston.

Mrs. Josephine Hamilton of No. 71 Farragut street, South Boston, beat off the dog with a broom.

THOUSANDS ON 'STRIKE,' SHUN R. I. TROLLEYS

Providence, R. I., May 28.—Thousands of workers walked to their jobs "on strike" against the trolleys of the United Electric Railways Company, as a protest against the boost of fares from six to eight cents.

When Providence banished hundreds of jitneys from her congested streets some years ago, the trolley company promised it would provide a scientifically managed bus system where needed and would strive to keep trolley fares as close to a nickel as possible.

APPROVED BY BOARD.

Recently pleading its income did not permit repair work and pay the stockholders six per cent., the company applied for and obtained permission to charge eight cents from the Public Utilities Commission.

City solicitors of Providence and Cranston and town solicitors of East and North Providence, have filed protests and promise to fight the fare boost, with other Rhode Island cities and towns to be heard from.

SHORTENS FARE ZONE.

Besides boosting the fares, which almost exclusively hits the working people, the trolley company in some instances has shortened fare zones.

It is thought the "strike" will spread and that the company will fail to get the additional revenue it insists it must have to maintain its property and give stockholders adequate dividends.

MAN'S BODY FOUND NEAR B. & M. TRACKS

South Acton, May 28.—The body of a middle-aged man, who had been run over by a Boston & Maine Railroad train, was found beside the track near the South Acton station. The body has not been identified. It was discovered by E. F. Pratt, a railroad engineer, while on his way to work. It is thought that the man met death while attempting to climb aboard a moving train. He was an ex-navy man, and bore tatoo marks on his breast and left arm.

MORE FALL RIVER WORKERS ON STRIKE

Fall River, May 28.—Additional employes at the Flint Mill have joined the ranks of the weavers and loomfixers, who have been on strike for the past two days as a protest against alleged conditions in the plant. The strikers claim they have increased their number from 75 to 125.

FRANK JUST A BAD BOY, SAYS MRS. TINNEY

Comedian's Wife Forgives Him for Indiscretion That Made Follies Girl Try Suicide

New York, May 28.—"Frank is the original 'Peck's Bad Boy'—but I love him just the same!"

Mrs. Frank Tinney speaking.

"When I came back from California with my little boy, I learned that my husband had been just a trifle indiscreet with Imogene Wilson of the Follies.

"Naturally I was angry and decided upon a separation.

"But Frank has done the same thing before, and I have always forgiven him. So I decided upon the same course once again—and now Frank is home with me, all is forgiven, and everything is just splendid."

With Imogene Wilson, however, who staged a little suicide party at her home early Monday morning and then didn't die at all because she used liver pills instead of poison tablets, things are no brighter than they once were.

"I'm working hard and I'm trying to forget," said the beautiful show-girl, "but it's a terribly hard task. Life isn't exactly an easy game when you try to stifle your affection for someone whom you really love.

"But time heals all wounds—and I know it will heal mine, too."

SPURNED BOY STABS ARMENIAN GIRL

New York, May 28.—An unconcerned crowd of workers homeward-bound laughed at Artin Kazarian, a young Turk, kneeling imploringly before Shamleam Mzrakjian, an Armenian girl.

A moment later the startled onlookers saw the Turk plunge a knife into the girl's body and dash through the throngs on Sixth avenue.

Policeman Carey caught Kazarian after thousands took up the chase.

The girl's condition was reported serious. Kazarian was charged with felonious assault.

2 MEN STONED TO DEATH AND BODIES HIDDEN

Remarks About a Woman Lead to Tragedy in New York State Town

Herkimer, N. Y., May 28.—Two men were stoned to death and their bodies thrown into a creek near Ohio, a small town a few miles north of here following a drunken party of road-workers, according to word reaching here. One of the dead men is said to be Andrew Kosach.

The identity of the other is unknown.

Remarks made about a woman friend of one of the workers is said to have started a fight. After the two men had been killed their bodies were carried to a nearby creek and thrown in. The skulls of the two dead men, it was said, were crushed to pieces by heavy stones.

At least half a dozen arrests are expected to be made in the next few hours in addition to the two men already taken into custody.

The party was attended by between a dozen and fifteen of the road workers. Moonshine was freely drank before the fight started.

Several deputy sheriffs have been dispatched to the scene of the crime in an effort to find the bodies.

'TOP OF WORLD' IS REACHED AT LAST

By C. F. BERTELLI.

(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service.)

Paris, May 28.—According to a private code radio dispatch from Darjeeling received by Lee Smithers, archaeologist, Mount Everest has been successfully climbed by members of the Bruce party of explorers, the peak, 29,002 feet above sea level, having been reached on May 16.

The dispatch, which was sent Saturday by a member of the party, read:

"Nepal crowd hear Everest peak reached May 16. Bruce cannot confirm."

Mr. Smithers thinks the "Nepal Crowd" means agents of the Rajah fo Nepal, an independent State of Hindustan on the northern border of which Mount Everest is located. The Rajah refused to give permission for members of the expedition to traverse Nepal, obliging them to find a way through Tibet.

General Bruce, commander of the expedition, evidently remained in Darjeeling where he was invalided shortly after the departure of the expedition.

Smithers, who returned from Tibet by way of Darjerrling last February, arranged with a friend to keep him informed as to the progress of the expedition. He has cabled for further details.

"If the news is true it is the greatest human physical triumph of all time," Smithers commented. "The mountain presents few of the ordinary mountain difficulties, but the altitude is such that prolonged efforts to climb it are impossible, while oxygen cannot be used except on short hikes owing to the weight of the tanks and apparatus."

ESCAPES DEATH DISGUISED AS WOMAN

Major Francis Yeats-Brown, British Ace, Tells Many Thrilling Experiences

Major Francis Yeats-Brown of the British army is visiting friends in Boston. He is the guest of Judge Robert Grant. Tuesday night he was the guest at a dinner given in Hotel Hemenway by Col. C. W. Furlong.

Major Yeats-Brown lived in Boston years ago. At that time his father was the British Consul General here. At the age of eight he went back to England. After graduating from Sandhurst, the British West Point, he served 18 years in the Indian Cavalry.

With the coming of the World War he was transferred to the air force and became an "ace." He fell near Bagdad while bombing the Turk railroad lines and was captured. He was marched through the desert to Constantinople. There he finally escaped from prison and disguised himself as a German governess. His knowledge of the German language stood him in good stead and during the entire last year of the war he lived in Constantinople and spread the Allies propaganda while posing as a woman. He speaks eight languages fluently.

He is now on leave for a few months, and decided to come back and visit his old home. At present he is stationed in India with a British cavalry troop.

Vermont Man Drowned Himself, Declares State's Attorney Adams

Montpelier, Vt., May 28.—Official investigation into the mysterious death of Charles D. Kimball, insurance agent, whose body, weighted with scrap iron, was found in the Winooski River, has been closed except for the medical probe.

State's Attorney Charles B. Adams, who conducted the investigation, declared that in his belief "it is an cut and out case of suicide. The only reason people here have been able to give me for believing he was murdered, is that they did not believe Kimball was the kind of a man who would take his own life."

The final decision on the case, however, will not be made until the report of Dr. Charles M. Whitney of Burlington, who is making an examination of the lunks, stomach and liver of Kimball, has been made. This is not expected now until the latter part of the week.

SWITCH BOARD RATE INCREASE AROUSES STORM OF PROTEST

INJURIOUS TO BOSTON BUSINESS

Commerce Chamber Lawyer Argues Against Extra Charge at Hearing

Daniel Bloomfield, attorney for the Retail Trade Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, at the resumed telephone hearing before the Public Utilities Department, declared increase in the rates on private switchboards is not justified in view of the facts contained in the telephone company's reports.

He contended that the company is over-capitalized and Chairman Henry C. Attwill of the department remarked the department is being continually told by the public the facilities are inadequate. He thought the company has no choice in the matter of providing the financial means of meeting the expenses in adding to equipment.

Attorney George B. Grant for the telephone company in a cross-examination of Mr. Bloomfield, brought out the admission that the company had never denied the Retail Trade Board access to its figures.

George K. Manson, chief engineer for the New England company, outlined the benefits that accrue to it through its 4½ per cent. contract with the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

North Shore Subscribers Fight Phone Increase

"Nearly half of the toll calls last more than three minutes; the new e schedule will produce a huge ome from subscribers on the rth Shore and similar points, ho use the telephone daily to communicate with Boston."

So declared Alderman Martha Brooks of Gloucester, leader of the fight of the North Shore section against the proposed rate increase of the New England Telephone & Tele ph Company.

In an interview Miss Brooks said ice-President McDavitt was in error when he declares that subscribers will tend to complete their calls more speedily and "avoid the higher rate.

"It is absurd to say that subscribers will be able to avoid the new rate by rushing through their calls," says Alderman Brooks. "On a toll call no superfluous conversation is indulged in, anyway. They are thoroughly necessary calls of an urgent nature and the regular five-minute allowance is none too large.

"This cutting of the time allowance seems designed as a painless or plainly equivocal way of getting more money."

The fight of Boston and out-of-town subscribers against the proposed rate increase, which will take a million and a half dollars from local pockets, gathered impetus today with the announcement that the Retail Trade Board of the Chamber of Commerce is marshaling its forces to spread the facts in connection with the strike before the public.

"An incomplete absorption of new plant and equipment has caused the telephone company's revenue in the period 1920-23 to show a drop each year as compared with the year previous," says David Bloomfield, secretary of the Retail Trade Board.

"By charging operating expenses for 1923 with the cost of the strike—about $2,500,000—net operating results and final income were further curtailed.

"These conditions can be remedied by increased volume of business, not by increase in rates.

"Strike expenses should not have been entered at all into a comparative statement of operating expense and earnings for the 1920-23 period. They should have been charged directly against surplus, instead of charging to surplus the difference between actual net income and dividend payments which were made, irrespective of strike loss.

"Considerably more than the quoted figures of the increase is at stake. The effect upon Boston business will be much more important. The thousands of out-of-town people living within the affected zones whose business will be diverted from Boston, have not been considered, apparently.

New York to Spend $200,000 Greeting Delegates

New York, May 28.—The Board of Estimates appropriated $200,000 for entertaining delegates and visitors to the national Democratic convention and approved plans for lavishly decorat the principal thoroughfares for the session, which will begin June 24.

TALK OF WALES AND ITALIAN PRINCESS

Religious Differences Would Bar Mafalda From the British Throne

London, May 28 (A.P.).—When the Prince of Wales walked with Princess Mafalda of Italy at the head of the procession of British and Italian royal families through the Guildhall to the luncheon, where the Lord Mayor was host, it was one of the rare occasions when the British heir has appeared in pub with a young lady of age and rank similar to his own.

Princess Mafalda

As the luncheon got under way, the guests, representatives of every phase of British national life, could not resist the temptation to gossip a bit about the appearance of the Prince and Princess Mafalda, for although the Prince himself seems eminently satisfied with bachelorhood, his father's subjects never lose an opportunity to speculate as to who will be their future Queen.

It was in anticipation of this inevitable talk, and in remembrance of the rumors circulated last year regarding a possible marriage of the Prince of Wales and the Princess Yolanda, that the British authorities who knew what was going on in royal circles stated positively a few days ago that the state visit to London of the Italian sovereigns had neither political nor marital significance.

It was pointed out religious differences would be an unsurmountable barrier to such a match, for a Catholic Princess would need to renounce the Church of Rome in order to mount the British throne, and such renunciation was considered beyond the realm of probability.

A state ball tonight will mark the culmination of the festivities in connection with the visit here of the Italian sovereigns. Two thousand guests have been invited, including the government ministers, diplomats, naval, military and civil officials and prominent members of society.

BISHOP BROWN MAY APPEAL TO COURTS

Injunction Against Proceedings of Episcopal Trial Is Considered

Cleveland, May 28 (A.P.).—Further problems of church law were before the court of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church today in the trial of the Rt. Rev. William M. Brown, retired bishop of Arkansas.

Bishop Brown

In addition to the vital question of jurisdiction argued yesterday and set for decision today, the defence has on file motions to discharge on the ground of too much generality and, if this is denied, a motion for a bill of particulars setting forth just how Bishop Brown is alleged to have controverted the book on common prayer and the apostles and Nicene creeds.

IMPARTIALITY QUESTIONED.

Joseph W. Sharts of Dayton, attorney for the accused, let it be known that he will also question the impartiality of the court. The defence questioned its jurisdiction on the ground that it was not legally constituted, six of its members having been elected at one general convention of the church, instead of three at each general convention as provided by church law.

FURTHER POINT.

The right of a bishop or group of bishops to question doctrine advanced by another bishop was disputed and the further point was made that Bishop Brown gave up his canonical residence when he retired from active work twelve years ago and therefore cannot legally be summoned before any church court.

The defence also advanced the idea that since the church has provided no court of appeal, its machinery for justice is incomplete. It was argued that the existing board of review and the right to appeal beyond that to the entire membership of the house of bishops is not sufficient.

TRINITY DEGREES FOR BAY STATE GIRLS

Washington, May 28.—Twelve Boston and Massachusetts girls, students at Trinity College, conducted by the Sisters of Notre Dame, are included in the 96 students to receive degrees. Commencement week exercises will begin Sunday with solemn pontifical mass in the chapel of Notre Dame, recently dedicated.

The following Massachusetts girls received A. B. degrees: Marie Rita Ahern, Boston; Katherine Mary Driscoll, Brookline; Mary Margaret Hearn, Westfield; Bernadine Butler, Worcester; Constance Feeney, Fall River; Miriam Elizabeth Hayes, Peabody; Elizabeth Margaret Heffernan, Roxbury; Blanche Killorin, Wakefield; Mary Louise Masterson, Roxbury; Natalie Frances O'Brien, Belmont; Gladys Walker, Lowell.

Mechanical Traffic Policeman Is Given Tryout

New York, May 28.—The mechanical "traffic policeman" was given its premiere here. It is an automatic signal device, designed to regulate traffic without the aid of the usual semaphoring policeman.

Police and other officials gathered at Broadway and Ninth street, while the device, invented by H. Lohonberg, directed traffic on the intersecting streets by red, yellow and green lights, which changed at intervals regulated by a mercury drop.

The working model was built at the expense of W. W. Arnheim, who proposes to manufacture them in large quantities for the city without profit if they are accepted by city experts as a practical substitute for traffic policemen.

STARVING BOY IS FOUND ON DOORMAT

Too timid to beg and too proud to steal Daniel Donovan, a sixteen-year-old homeless waif, elected to starve, and when he broke his three days fast at City Hospital he amazed the doctors by his phenomenal appetite.

In one fell swoop Daniel licked up a regular hospital ration of twelve ounces of potatoes, half a broiled mackerel and a few side dishes of carrots and peas. Then he beamed upon the doctors and signalled for more. Between mouthfuls he told his story.

Dr. Daigalski made a professional call on West Second street, South Boston, and as he fumbled for the latch in a dark doorway he stumbled over Daniel who was sleeping noisily on the welcome mat.

Daniel was awakened. He was somewhat light headed inasmuch as his last meal had been eaten some three days ago. The doctor diagnosed his case as plain starvation and rushed him to City Hospital.

PEDLARS BARRED FROM FIRE STATION

Loitering on the apparatus floor of the Highland Avenue Fire Station in Somerville has been banned, in orders promulgated by Captain Horace W. Hutchins. He announced that the man on desk patrol will, in the future, be held responsible for the enforcement of that rule. Solicitors, pedlers, bill collectors, canvassers or promoters of enterprises in which the fire department has no interest, are to be barred out.

NEW SERVICE TO MONTREAL PLANNED

Philadelphia, May 26.—On Sunday, June 15, the Pennsylvania railroad, in conjunction with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, the Central Vermont Railway, the Boston & Maine Railroad and the Canadian National Railways, will inaugurate through passenger train service between Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Montreal, Canada, via the Hell Gate Bridge route.

'ENOCH ARDEN' GREETS WIFE COLDLY

"You've Changed a Lot," Boyd Tells Mrs. Atkinson After 35 Years' Absence

New York, May 28.—The current Enoch Arden theme took on a few extra thrills when Mrs. Isabella Atkinson, the central figure in the Twentieth Century edition of the tale, told the story of her strange life.

Her original husband, Roger H. Boyd, had remarried, but his second wife died leaving him with three children. He, like Mrs. Atkinson and her second husband, Blanchard P. Atkinson, a patent medicine manufacturer, has been living in New York for years.

ARDOR VANISHED.

The thirty-four years that Mrs. Atkinson and Boyd lived apart virtually obliterated their original ardor, and both were exceedingly calm at their recent meeting, arranged by attorneys of Atkinson, who is seeking to have his marriage of twenty years annulled.

Since they failed to recognize each other, an introduction was necessary. After the formalities Boyd said:—

"Why, Belle, I believe you have grown taller. I must say these youngsters grow up quickly."

When he saw her last she was only sixteen, and it was her youth that brought about their parting.

MARRIED AT 15.

"I married Mr. Boyd when I was only fifteen," Mrs. Atkinson said.

"The trouble was that I was too young to marry. I thought the best thing to do was to go back to my family for a while. Mr. Boyd decided to go West.

"In 1897 I heard he had died of fever in Mexico.

"Mr. Atkinson learned first that Mr. Boyd was living, but he didn't tell me."

SOUTH BOSTON TOTS PLEASED BY THURSTON

Magician Entertains 1,000 in St. Augustine's Parochial School

Eight-year-old Steve Joyce of South Boston is the champion egg holder of the city.

This title was awarded to him during the course of an entertainment given by Howard Thurston, wonder magician, in St. Augustine's church parochial school hall, through special arrangement with the Boston American and was attended by more than 1000 children. Mr. Thurston concludes a month's engagement at the Selwyn theatre next Saturday.

As the magic wand produced the eggs from the hat Mr. Thurston handed them to Steve, who did his best to hold them all but what can a little fellow do with a bushel of eggs in his arms? Several dozen were broken and as each fell to the floor it was accompanied by lusty shouts from a thousand throats.

A rabbit and a duck were found under the coat collar of the Rev. Father Richard A. Burke, one of the assistant priests of the parish. Ten-year-old Mary Holbrook aided Mr. Thurston in changing this bunny into a box of chocolates.

Other kiddies who helped Mr. Thurston were John and Joseph Mulligan, Jane Greely, Anna Joyce, Elizabeth Mahoney, James King, Frances McGovern, James McQuaid, John Clougherty, William Studley, Mary Dunn, Thomas Kane, Tommy Mulkern, Herbert Wessling and Timothy McCarthy.

Five hundred children from the House of the Angel Guardian, Jamaica Plain, will be entertained at the Selwyn Theatre by Mr. Thurston this afternoon.

Bishop to Preach

For the thirtieth time Bishop William Lawrence will deliver the annual sermon at the commencement service of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, June 12. The bishop is one of the oldest graduates of this school and an alumni of the class of 1875.

$200,000 ASKED FOR MENTAL DISEASE WORK

Commissioner Kline Sees Cut in Employes if Appropriation Is Decreased

Dr. George M. Kline, State commissioner on mental diseases, appeared before the House Committee on Ways and Means asking that the amount for "Emergency expenses," cut to $100,000 in the supplementary budget by Homer Loring, commissioner on administration and finance, be restored to $200,000, originally asked for.

Dr. Kline based his argument on three points: First, that to maintain the present quota of physicians, nurses attendants and general help, the allowed appropriation was not sufficient; second, a portion of the additional $100,000 wanted is for wage increases which, under law, occur from June 1 to the end of December; third, that a part of the money is for temporary and new help.

Cutting out the $100,000 will mean a proportionate cutting down of the work, claimed Dr. Kline, who feared that it might become necessary even to discharge some of the employes. If some leave, then this decreased appropriation will mean that others cannot be engaged. Whatever happened Dr. Kline saw in this pruning a lowering in the standards which the department strives to maintain and a hampering of the work.

Diplomas Given to 123 at Annual Commencement Exercises

United States Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona was orator of the day at the commencement exercises of the Suffolk Law School today.

One hundred and twenty-three embryo legal lights were presented with diplomas. Joseph F. O'Connell presided. Congressman Peter F. Tague addressed the graduates.

The class day exercises were held earlier in the day, when the graduates listened to the reading of the class history by Harry J Dooley, the prophecy by Morris Stone and valedictory by John Hancock Eaton, Jr.

Officers of the graduating class are: John Edward Fenton, president; Russell Sullivan Riley, vice-president; Joseph Peter McFarland, secretary; Thomas Francis Teehan, treasurer, and Leo Joseph Cronin, class marshal.

BRIDGE HOLDUP MEN SOUGHT IN SOUTH END

Trust Co. Messenger Robbed of $15,000 as Scores Look on; Auto Owner Held

Search for the four gunmen who held up Herbert Hume, messenger for the Guaranty Trust Company, Cambridge, and robbed him of $15,000 as scores of persons looked on, centers about the South End of Boston today following the receipt of information by Cambridge police that at least one of the men wanted frequents that district.

The police have learned the last name of this man.

Meanwhile, Albert Williams, of No. 1919 Tremont street, Boston, taxi cab proprietor and owner of the limousine in which the holdup men made their escape, is under arrest in Central Square police station, Cambridge, charged with being an accessory before and after the fact to the robbery.

Officials are trying to get from him the names of the men who were in the car when it figured in the holdup.

He was unable to furnish bail of $25,000 which the police asked.

Williams insists that he knows nothing of the robbery. He says that the man who took the car from him wanted to drive to State street. This man, he said, is a frequenter of the South End garage where Williams' car is kept.

The taxi man said that his limousine was returned to him at about 10.30 by the person to whom he loaned it and that this person was alone when he came there.

31,000 Are Listed for This Year's Army Training Camps

Washington, May 28.—Secretary of War Weeks today announced that more than 31,000 applications have been received for the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which are to be held throughout the country this Summer. At this time last year the number of applications received was approximately 13,000.

The first of the camps will not open until after July 4, and at the present rate the applicants will exceed 50,000.

Under the appropriations available, only about 30,000 men can be accommodated in the camps, which will number twenty-eight, including one at Porto Rico.

U.S. NEGOTIATES FOR DEATH RAY, IS RUMORED

French Authorities Say Matthews Refused Offer of Navy Department

London, May 28., (A.P.)—Reports of American interest in the British "Death Rays" are current here.

The National Academy of Sciences in Washington is stated to have cabled over, asking details, while another rumor is that the United States Navy Department has communicated with H. Grindell Matthews, inventor of the "Diabolical Ray." A Paris dispatch goes so far as to say that the Navy Department offered to purchase the secret, but that Matthews refused.

Matthews left for France yesterday by airplane, breaking off his negotiations with the British Government.

Meanwhile other claimants of similar inventions are coming forward, including one named Prior, who, according to the Daily Express, obtains the energy for the ray he has discovered from ordinary electric power mains. Another is a London engineer, Raffe, about whom nothing is stated beyond the fact of the claim that the Daily Express says he interviewed "the authorities" yesterday.

GUN IN 1 HAND, BABE IN OTHER, HOLDS UP BANK

Western Type of Bobbed Bandit Gets $1,000, but Is Caught

Peoria, Ills., May 28 (Universal Service)—Norma Anderson, who held up the Steenburg bank at Farmington, Ills., with a baby in one arm and a revolver in another, was captured.

The pretty 18-year-old mother had sought to outdo Celia Cooney, Brooklyn's bobbed-haired bandit. She succeeded in the holdup, but her success was short-lived. Three hours after the robbery she was taken in Hanna City, with her two-year-old baby and the $1,000 bank loot was recovered.

CONFESSES MURDER OF AUNT WITH AXE

Paterson, N. J., May 28.—Frank Carbone confessed to the murder of his aunt, Mrs. Marie Sferrazza, whose body was found in a shack at West Paterson. After murdering the woman with an axe because she refused to give him money, Carbone said, according to the police, he went to the Passaic river and washed bloodstains off his hands after throwing the axe in the water.

LA FOLLETTE READY TO LEAD THIRD PARTY

substantial changes are forthcoming a "long-suffering and righteously indignant people will find in the coming campaign effective means, independent of both these old parties, to take back control of their government and make it truly representative."

This announcement was interpreted as a clear indication of La Follette's willingness to head a political movement should subsequent developments warrant such a course.

La Follette's views on national politics, particularly in connection with the approaching national conventions, were contained in a letter which he wrote from Atlantic City, N. J., where he is convalescing from a recent illness, to Herman L. Ekern, Attorney-General of Wisconsin.

DEMANDS A "CLEANUP"

La Follette lashed out at the scandals in Washington and demanded an official "clean-up." At the same time, he divorced himself completely from any connection with the Communist movement in the United States, declaring he would have nothing to do with the "Farmer-Labor Progressive" convention at St. Paul, Minn., on June 17, "because those who have had charge of the arrangements for the convention have committed the fatal error of making the Communists an integral part of their organization."

If La Follette heads a third ticket Republican leaders are fearful that he will cut severely into the Coolidge strength by desertion of progressiveness, while the Democrats feel that La Follette as a presidential candidate would insure the election of a Democrat to the White House.

La Follette made it plain that he does not want to be placed in the Republican, Democratic or Communistic entanglements.

"The Communists stand for the substitution of the Soviet form of government for the one we have and propose to accomplish this change through a revolution, with a class dictatorship as their ultimate aim instead of democracy," he explained. "To pretend that the Communists can work with the Progressives is deliberately to deceive."

"I have devoted many years of my life to an effort to solve the problems which confront the American people by the ballot and not by force," he added. "I believe that the people through the ballot can completely control their government in every branch and compel it to serve them effectively. I have fought steadfastly to achieve this end, and I shall not abandon this fight as long as I may live. I believe therefore, that all Progressives should refuse to participate in any movement which makes common cause with any Communist organization."

TEXT OF LETTER

The text of the letter written May 26 at Atlantic City, N. J., where the Senator is recuperating from a long illness, and addressed to Herman L. Ekern, Attorney-General, Madison, Wis., follows:

I have your letter of May 17, saying that many of my friends in Wisconsin are anxious to know my attitude toward the "Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention," called to meet at St. Paul, June 17.

I should not feel it incumbent upon me to declare my attitude except that my name is being used by the promoters of that convention in such a way as to convey the impression that it has my approval and as a result some of my friends in different parts of the country contemplate attending the St. Paul convention. because of these facts, I feel it my duty to state my view frankly.

PLAN REVOLUTION

I have no doubt that very many of those who have participated in bringing about the St. Paul convention have been actuated by the purest desire to promote genuine political and economic progress.

Nevertheless, in my judgment, the June 17 convention will not command the support of the farmers, the workers, or other progressives because those who have had charge of the arrangements for this convention have committed the fatal error of making the Communists an integral part of their organization.

The Communists have admittedly entered into this political movement not for the purpose of curing, by means of the ballot, the evils which afflict the American people, but only to divide and confuse the progressive movement and create a condition of chaos favorable to their ultimate aims. Their real purpose is to establish by revolutionary action a dictatorship of the proletariat, which is absolutely repugnant to Democratic ideals and to all American aspirations.

The official declarations of the workers' party show clearly that they are seeking to use the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota and other progressive organizations that have lent their names to this convention as a means of advancing their own ends.

This is shown by an official statement of the central executive committee of the Workers' Party of America as follows:

(Printed in "The Daily Worker"—the official organ of the Workers' Party—March 31, 1924.)

"The policy which we adopt in Minnesota will be a precedent for the whole party in relation to the national Farmer-Labor party when that organization is finally crystallized. It is therefore important that we adopt the correct Communist policy in Minnesota as a guide to our whole party for its work inside of the Farmer-Labor party throughout the country.

WARNS THE FARMERS

"The Workers' party prides itself in being a Communist party: that means that it considers its work to build up and lead the forces which will bring about a proletarian revolution in the United States and establish a soviet form of government and a dictatorship of the proletariat."

Progressives intended to attend the June 17 convention should also consider the statement, published in "The Daily Worker" of May 14, 1924, by the central executive committee of the Workers' Party of America over the signatures of William Z. Foster and G. E. Ruthenberg, executive secretary.

"In order to settle the question of whether the Farmer-Labor united front was a policy that a Communist party, such as the Workers' party, should put into effect and in support of which it should throw all its strength, the central executive committee of the Workers' party submitted this question to the Communist International (Moscow), with which it is affiliated as a fraternal organization.

"The view of the Communist International on this question is expressed in the following cablegram:

"'Communist International considers June 17 convention momentous importance for Workers' party. Urges C. E. C. not to slacken activities preparation June 17. Utilize every available force to make St. Paul convention great representative gathering labor and left wing.'"

COMMUNISTS ACTIVE

The communist organization in America thus acting under orders from the Communist International at Moscow, will not only participate in the St. Paul convention on June 17, but has already secured a strategic position in the direction of that convention. C. A. Hathaway, secretary-treasurer of the committee on arrangements for the St. Paul convention, is an avowed communist, and was a delegate to its third National Convention, held in Chicago, December 30, 1923.

All credentials for the St. Paul convention are made returnable to Hathaway as secretary, and as treasurer he controls its funds. Joseph Manley, son-in-law of William Z. Foster, and an avowed communist, is also a member of the committee on arrangements.

Although the National Communist organization as such may be granted only five delegates in the St. Paul convention, the basis of representation adopted is lending itself to their purpose to control. Reliable information shows that a very large number of communist delegates will be present at St. Paul with duly authorized credentials.

Reposing complete confidence in the soundness of the deliberate judgment of the American people, I have no apprehension that the Communist Party can ever command any considerable support in this country.

PROTESTS SOVIETISM

I do not question their right under the Constitution to submit their issues to the people, but I most emphatically protest against their being admitted into the councils of any body of progressive voters. The communists stand for the substitution of the Soviet form of government for the one we now have, and propose to accomplish this change through a revolution, with a class dictatorship as their ultimate aim, instead of a Democracy. To pretend that the communists can work with the progressives who believe in Democracy, is deliberately to deceive the public. The communists are antagonistic to the progressive cause and their only purpose in joining such a movement is to disrupt it.

Not only are the communists the mortal enemies of the progressive movement and Democratic ideals, but, under the cloak of such extremists, the reactionary interests find the best opportunity to plant their spies and provocatory agents for the purpose of confusing and destroying true progressive movements.

PUBLIC IS AROUSED

I have devoted many years of my life to an effort to solve the problems which confront the American people, by the ballot and not by force. I believe that the people through the ballot can completely control their government in every branch, and compel it to serve them effectively. I have fought steadfastly to achieve this end, and I shall not abandon this fight as long as I live. I believe, therefore, that the progressives should refuse to participate in any movement which makes common cause with any communist organization.

There is no doubt that the people have come to understand that private monopoly controls the official machinery of both the Democratic and Republican parties. Recent public scandals, such as the war frauds, the Shipping Board, Teapot Dome, and other oil leases, the Veterans' Bureau, the Alien Property custodian, the degradation of the Department of Justice, under both Democratic and Republican administrations, and the endless fraud and corruption in connection with taxation and prohibition enforcement, are but evidences of such control of party machinery by lawless and predatory interests.

The approaching Democratic and Republican conventions will demonstrate to the people whether either of those parties can and will purge itself of the evil influences which have long dominated them. This cannot be accomplished by merely nominating some alleged progressive, and filling the platform with misleading promises.

It demands the elimination of monopoly control, the downfall of the corrupt political bosses, the adoption of truly progressive principles, and the repudiation of those great campaign contributors who have in the past bought up both parties.

If this is not done, a long suffering and righteously indignant people will find in the coming campaign effective means, independent of both old parties, to take back control of their government, and make it truly representative.

Old Parties Must End Evil Ways to Win—La Follette

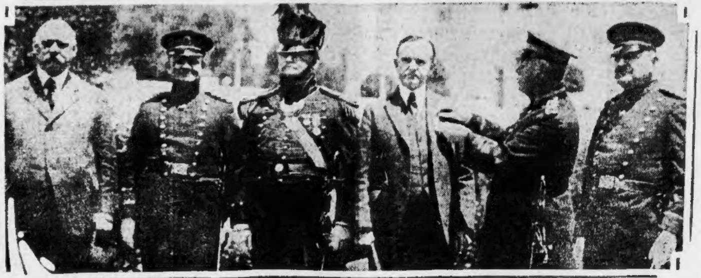
PRESIDENT JOINS THE ANCIENTS



COOLIDGE MADE HONORARY MEMBER AT WHITE HOUSE

Colonel Willis W. Stover pinned the badge of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts on the breast of the President who has been made an honorary member of the organization. Those shown in the picture are, left to right: Secretary of War Weeks, Captain C. J. MacKenzie, Captain W. N. MacKenna, President Coolidge, Colonel Willis W. Stover and Captain Thomas H. Ratigan.

CATHOLICS TO AID NEAR EAST RELIEF

Many prominent men and women of Greater Boston, members of the executive committee in charge of arrangements for the big mass meeting for Catholic relief work in the near east, to be held in Symphony hall on Sunday evening, were present at the headquarters of the League of Catholic Women, No. 1 Arlington street. So many responses have been received from the parishes of the archdiocese that it is believed an overflow meeting will be necessary. Cardinal O'Connell will attend.

'WETS' ELECTED IN MINNESOTA, FOR SMITH

Anti-McAdoo Leaders Claim 16 Delegates; Plan for Unit Rule

St. Paul, May 28.—The Ramsey county Democratic convention unanimously endorsed James Howell and Sheriff John Wagner as delegates from the Fourth Congressional district to the New York convention.

Both are out and out wets and are shouting for Governor Smith.

The anti-McAdoo leaders, following the convention, laid claim to sixteen of the twenty-four national delegates to be ratified in Saturday's State convention. If this count is accurate they will slap on the unit rule which would mean a solid anti-McAdoo delegation from Minnesota.

Waco, Tex., May 28 (A.P.)—In a harmonious convention, Texas Democracy recorded its unqualified approval of William G. McAdoo by instructing its delegates to the convention to vote for McAdoo "as long as his name is before the convention." The convention endorsed Colonel Alvin Owsley of Dallas, former national commander of the American Legion, for Vice-President.

Dallas, Tex., May 28 (A.P.)—Selection of twenty-three delegates and an equal number of alternates instructed to vote for Calvin Coolidge for the presidential nomination and endorsement of R. B. Creager, national committeeman, was the principal action of the Republican State Convention here.

Charleston, W. Va., May 28.—H. M. Gore, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, was leading early today. With 315 precincts out of 2,152 heard from, Gore was about 800 votes ahead of E. T. England.

In the race for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, Guy D. Goff, former United States Assistant Attorney General, was in the lead by a wide margin.

REAL FOOT COMFORT HERE AT LAST

ICE-MINT

The New Discovery Ends All Foot Troubles

Don't limp, swear, hump your shoulders nor suffer in silence with painful corns, callouses, bunions or with feet that just naturally tire quickly and hurt you. Just step into any Drug Store and get a jar of cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and the moment it touches those poor, tired, aching feet you will just sigh with relief. Real foot comfort, quick and sure.

Ice-Mint is a snow-white, creamy preparation that comes from Japan. It is absolutely harmless, yet it stops pain instantly, draws the sting out of painful corns, callouses and bunions, reduces the swelling and makes the feet feel cool, easy, and comfortable. You just rub it on like cold cream. Ah! how good your shoes feel and you can dance all night or walk all day and your feet won't hurt a bit. Think of it, only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. It actually makes a pair of tired swollen, corn-pestered, aching feet just glow with cooling comfort. Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high-heeled shoes and men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Get a jar of Ice-Mint today and give those poor, tired, aching, swollen feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better

LEVIATHAN IS OUTFITTED BY BRITISH FIRMS

While Shipping Board Urges "Patriotism" at Home, It Does Its Shopping Abroad

While the United States Shipping Board was urging "patriotic Americans to travel on American ships," its great steamship Leviathan was outfitted with several hundred thousand dollars' worth of goods bought in England.

[illegible]

[illegible] towels and table linen every yard of which could have been obtained in New England. Purchased at a time when the New England textile market was in the ebb of a slack season, it would have been a windfall to the local trade.

GOODS CAME TO HUB.

When the huge shipment arrived, [illegible] duties were assessed against the Shipping Board. Being a government agency, the board was allowed to remove the goods on promise to pay.

When no cash was forthcoming, the Boston authorities made a demand on the Shipping Board. That body refused to pay the bill, saying their appropriations was exhausted.

SUED IN VAIN

It was then suggested that the customs department sue the Shipping Board for the $85,000. Finally, however, it was decided that this would be a useless move, as if the suit were successful the cash would come out of the United States Treasury anyway.

Therefore the Boston customs officials were directed to strike the bill from their books as "uncollectable."

The case of the Leviathan is only one instance where the Shipping Board spent their money in England rather than here. It [illegible] all their other ships were outfitted in the same manner, it is said.

It is legendary among Radcliffe Juniors that whoever is chosen to head the photographic committee shall be presumed to be the prettiest member of the class. So when the Juniors named Miss Betty Ryder of No. 968 Hancock street, Quincy, as chairman of that committee it was a foregone conclusion she had been selected because of her all around beauty. The other members of the committee are Miss Elizabeth Neal of Brookline and Miss Laura Burrhell of Canada. They will visit many Boston photographers and have their pictures taken. Later the Junior class will decide which photographer has done the most artistic work and he will be rewarded with the contract to take the class pictures next year.

AFRAID, SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Operation Advised, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made It Unnecessary

Glasgow, Kentucky.—"I was run down, nervous, with no appetite. My side had given me trouble for five or six years. At times it was all I could do to live and the doctor said I couldn't live but a short time longer without an operation. That was two years ago. My sister-in-law recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She had never used it herself, but she said one of her neighbors suffered just like I did, and it cured her. After I had taken four bottles the pain left my side. I had a fine appetite to eat anything that was put before me, and I began to do all my work and my washing, something I hadn't done for years. I am a dressmaker, and this last fall I began suffering with my side again, so I began taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am on my fourth bottle, which makes eight in all I have taken. I feel so much better when I take it and everybody tells me I look better. My appetite improves and I feel stronger in every way. I am a very nervous woman and it seems to help my nerves so much."—Mrs. MAGGIE WALLER, Glasgow, Kentucky.

Good Values
are what enable us always to enjoy
Good Business

The more closely people look at both sides of their clothing dollars, the more they appreciate our better values and the more likely they are to avail themselves of the economies offered by these Kennedy Stores.

When the exclusive tailor's clientele begins to balk at made-to-measure prices, they come here and get equally good style, fit, fabric and tailoring at half the cost.

When people accustomed to saying "charge it" begin to figure the cost of this supposed convenience, they come here where prices are always lower because always for cash.

And so it goes all along the line. The stronger the urge toward economy, the stronger the incentive to buy here. Greater value-giving in quality clothes is not merely our aim—it's our accomplishment.

BELLBOY SEES PLOT IN SEARLES WILL

Spurned, Jailed by Suitor, Says Girl

PAID FOR FINERY WITH HER LOVE, SHE SAYS

(Photo Credit by L. W. Rand, Brockton.)

MISS ANNA JOHNSON

Brockton girl on trial for alleged theft of $1,100 diamond ring from rich merchant, to whom, she declares, she gave all her love for fine clothes, auto rides and gifts of money, finally going to a hospital where, she alleges, he paid all the bills and represented her as his wife after he had taken her for treatment to a doctor in Norton.

CHARGED WITH GEM THEFT

Brockton Young Woman Accuses Merchant of Sending Her to Hospital

Brockton, May 28. — Miss Anna Johnson, pretty 19-year-old cloak model and beauty parlor attendant, told on the witness stand in court how she gave her love to Joseph Swetchkenbaum, wealthy clothing merchant of Taunton and Attleboro, in exchange for fine clothes, automobile rides, gay parties and money.

Swetchkenbaum, taken to court in a glistening limousine driven by a liveried chauffeur, sat opposite the girl in the court-room, apparently unmoved, as she told how her love affair finally led her to a cot in Brockton hospital.

A magnificent home, any automobile she might select, a life insurance policy—all were promised the girl by the wealthy merchant, she testified, but in the end, he had her arrested for failing to return a diamond ring that she says was given her outright.

He charged larceny of the diamond valued by him at $1,100 but for which the girl claims she received only $260 when she sold it in New York City.

"He first met me on North Main street in Brockton," said the girl.

"I joined an automobile party of which he was a member and after that I became his sweetheart.

"There were many automobile rides. Everywhere he went he would buy things and put money in my pocket. He bought me all kinds of fine clothes.

"Then I had to go to the hospital. First he took me to a Professor Williamson or a Dr Williams in Norton. Each time I went to the doctor he paid him in cash

SAYS HE CALLED HER WIFE.

"When I went to the hospital he told them I was his wife so that I might get a private room and he paid all the bills. There were flowers from him on my dresser all the time.

"When I got out I told Joe he would have to marry me. He had promised me this before I went to the hospital but something always happened.

"Once he even went so far as to take me to Boston where he said we would be secretly wed. We didn't.

"On the trip back he took a diamond ring off his finger, tore his handkerchief, wrapped the strips around the inside of the ring and slipped it on my finger. He told me the ring was mine and to go to a Brockton jeweler and have it cut down

REFUSES TO MARRY.

"He wouldn't marry and I finally got so I couldn't stand him any longer. I went to New York where I met a girl friend. In a taxicab ride I lost my money and had to sell the ring. I got $260 for it. It was my ring. The man who bought it said it had a flaw in it.

"When I returned from New York I went to No. 110 Oxford street, Cambridge and entered a beauty parlor to learn beauty culture. I had no idea of hiding myself and was surprised when my brother-in-law telephoned and told me Joe had a warrant out for my arrest for stealing his ring.

"Why, he had promised to build me a big house, buy me any automobile I wanted and he also said he would take out a big insurance policy for me so that I'd be taken care of after he died."

When the girl concluded her story, Swetchkenbaum was placed on the stand

He admitted, on cross examination that he had purchased some clothing for the girl but denied he had taken her to the doctor's office in Norton and that he had contracted to pay the hospital bills.

"I just loaned her the ring and she never returned it," he testified.

SEES PLOT IN SEARLES BEQUEST

Ellison Considered Presumptive Heir, He Says, in His $17,000,000 Suit

New York, May 28.—The complaint in the suit of Angelo Milton Ellison against Arthur T. Walker, who inherited the estate of Edward F. Searles, and Lewis L. Delafield, the attorney who drew the will of Mr. Searles leaving the property to Walker, secretary to Mr Searles, was filed in the Supreme Court. The complaint charges that Ellison was damaged $17,000,000 by the acts of the defendants

The complaint says that Mr. Searles was seventy-nine years old when he died at his home in Methuen, Mass., on Aug. 6, 1921, and that for several years previous Ellison, who is a Greek, and had been employed as bellboy at the Murray Hill Hotel, where Mr. Searles lived, was the "most cherished object in his life."

DEVOTED CARE.

It is alleged that during this time Mr. Searles "had neither wife nor child or other descendants, and during all said times, down to the making of his will, his affections were centered upon the plaintiff, toward whom he felt and upon whom he lavished the most devoted care and solicitude, and whom he regarded and treated as his presumptive heir."

Ellison said that the defendant Walker "sustained fiduciary relations with Mr. Searles and with the plaintiff, and was acting as adviser to the plaintiff in preparing the plaintiff by training and education to fill the important financial station which the said Edward F. Searles intended and designed the plaintiff to occupy as successor to his estate and property." Ellison charges that for a month before the aged recluse died he attempted to see Mr. eSarles and to send him letters, but Walker persuaded him that Mr. Searles was too ill to see him, because "the shock of joy at seeing the plaintiff might be injurious to him in his condition."

NEED OF COMFORT

The complaint asserts that Mr. Searles was not in such a condition that he would have suffered a shock from seeing Ellison but that he was "longing for, expecting and in need of the plaintiff's presence, comfort and sympathy, and was unfavorably affected physically and mentally by the plaintiff's absence." Ellison contends that because of teh trust he imposed in Walker the latter was able to keep him and his letters from Mr. Searles and was thus able to bring about the success of his plan to obtain the estate for himself

Ellison charges also that Mr. Delafield was brought in by Walker to draw Mr. Searles' will, and that Mr Searles was not permitted by the two defendants to make his will at a time when he was in condition to remember that the plaintiff was the chief object of his affection, but that Mr. Searles was subjected to improper, prejudicial and dangerous medical treatment, which impaired his health and rendered him amenable to fraudulent designs and practices of the defendant Walker."

WEAKENED CONDITION.

Ellison asserts that when Mr. Searles was in a weakened condition, because of the alleged improper treatment, he was caused to make the will giving more than $16,000,000 to Walker. It is alleged that Mr. Delafield received more than $500,000 for his services. Ellison contends that had he been permitted to see Mr. Searles during his last illness he 'would have given him the sympathy of his presence and filial affection, and the consummation of the evil and fraudulent designs of the said Walker would have been impossible.

Ellison also charges that Walker, in violation of the duty he owed to Ellison, made statements reflecting on his character to Mr. Searles and asserted that he was of "bad and corrupt habits."

DR. FRANK CRANE ON SALVATION BY PROGRESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"THE Good is the enemy of the Best" is a truthful proverb

The real crime is the failure to grow better. Whoever will not go on up is thrust down. Living one's life is like riding a bicycle or an aeroplane—to stop means a bad fall.

It has been said, why educate the simple savages? They are happy as they are, and what faults they have are probably not so bad as the evils of civilization. But the question might with equal justice be turned upon ourselves; why should we learn more and have opportunities for further advancement? If we fail to improve the occasion it is as bad with us as with the savages.

Salvation, in its true sense, is not a question of Safety, but of Progress. What shall make us Safe is a purely speculative inquiry. What will make us better and wiser is a real problem. The inner purpose of both Culture and Religion is to deepen, strengthen and purify life. The object of the discipline we receive in this world is not to get our souls into some delightful Place, nor to make us Happy, but it is to make us finer, nobler, more wonderful and great

The characteristic of wisdom is its conviction of ignorance, that it needs more wisdom; of genuine goodness, that it ought to be better; of real nobility, that it should be nobler. Life's truest symptom is the craving for more life. There is small hope for one who thinks he is good and wise and noble enough.

AUTOIST JUMPS FROM BRIDGE IN RESCUE

Scores of automobilists watched Robert L. Machie, Jr., of No. 628 Warren street, Roxbury, leap from his car on Harvard Bridge, into the Charles River to rescue Edmund Wasserman, a chauffeur, who attempted suicide.

Machie succeeded in keeping Wasserman afloat until other persons went to his aid with ropes and ladders

BESIDE NEW CHAUFFEUR.

Wasserman was riding beside a new chauffeur, recently hired by E. N. Berbecker of Arlington Heights, Illinois, who is visiting Boston, when the machine started to cross the bridge.

Without warning Wasserman jumped from the car, strode to the railing, climbed over and dropped into the water.

Machie was nearby in his automobile. He brought it to a quick stop and without waiting to remove even his outer clothing, leaped after Wasserman into the river

HAD BEEN ACTING QUEERLY.

Berbecker told the police that he noticed Wasserman acting queerly for several days and therefore hired a new man to drive his car. He had brought Wasserman to Boston from the Illinois city, the home of both

Wasserman was not allowed to drive the machine but sat beside the new chauffeur when the family went anywhere.

Police took Wasserman to Cambridge Municipal Hospital where he was kept under observation until today. He has a family in Illinois.

LUMBERJACKS ESCAPE TRAP ON BIG JAM

Montreal, Que., May 28 (I.N.S.).—The forty lumberjacks who were isolated from civilization by the jam of 80,000,000 feet of pulp wood and timber on the Gatineau River are free today according to advices received here.

One more tribute should be paid to the aeroplane, officials of the American Pulp and Paper Corporation said today, because of the service it rendered the imprisoned men

When word was received here Sunday that the men were in danger Captain Grandy of the Laurentide Air Service Corporation flew to the scene. Unable to land, he communicated with the men and then flew back to Montreal for supplies.

When Grandy returned to the men yesterday he found the log jam broken and the men safe.

BAPTISTS ORGANIZE TO BAR MODERNISM

Milwaukee, May 28.—The annual Northern Baptist convention opened today with delegates to the Baptist Bible Union, organized, through two days of pre-convention sessions, to hush the voice of modernism should it be raised in the convention. Withdrawal from the Council of Churches of Christ, adoption of a Baptist confession of faith, correction of the reading course for young ministers and disfranchisement of salaried servants of the convention were among the principal questions before today's session.

C. S. Shanks of Seattle, president of the convention, is head of a group which seeks adoption of a resolution deploring the action of Congress in excluding Japanese immigration

4 ARRESTED IN LOWELL DRUG RAID

Two Physicians, a Man and Woman, Held; Charge Prescriptions Altered

Lowell, May 28.—Seeking the source of an extensive supply of morphine prescriptions filled in local drug store the past month the police today held two local doctors and a man and wife from Lawrence.

Dr. David S. Bellhumeur, one of the most prominent physicians in this city, and a colleague, Dr. Terrance C. Kinlin, were arrested in their offices.

They were booked on charges of unlawfully prescribing morphine and the unlawful sale of hypodermic syringes. Dr. Bellhumeur was charged in five counts with unlawfully prescribing, and Dr. Kinlin was charged with the sale of syringes.

Samuel Buckley of Lawrence and a woman who claims she is Mrs. Anna B. Buckley, his wife, were shadowed several hours and placed under arrest. The man is charged with falsely altering prescriptions on two counts and uttering prescriptions. The woman is charged with unlawful possession of hypodermic syringes.

According to the police, the prescriptions were obtained from the doctors and then raised. Tickets calling for twelve 1-8 grain tablets would be raised to twenty-four. The drug thus obtained is alleged to have been distributed to a large clientele while the distributors also furnished the hypo with which the drug was administered.

CLUB WOMEN OFF IN SPECIAL TRAIN

Mrs. Frederick Glazer Smith newly elected president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, headed the party of 125 Massachusetts women who left the South Station on an official train bound for the seventeenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Los Angeles, Cal. All told there were 160 in the group hailing from various parts of New England and including a few husbands.

SIX WOMEN IN AMARAL DEFENCE

Girl He Says Met Him on Murder Day and Sweetheart to Testify

Providence, R. I., May 28.—Six women, two of whom are unknown to the State, will play leading roles in the defence of Anthony Amaral, Portuguese farm hand, whose hearing on the charge of murdering nine-year-old Clementine Cosmo, was in progress at East Providence today.

The two women whose identity the defense is keeping secret are the sweetheart of the accused youth and another woman with whom Amaral claims he kept a clandestine appointment on the day the Cosmo girl was abducted and slain.

Elizabeth McConnell of E. Providence, who was accosted by the kidnapper of the Cosmo girl, is another witness for the defense. Her failure to identify Amaral as the youth who stopped his car and asked her to take a ride, and a few moments later picked up the Cosmo girl, makes her a witness of importance in Amaral's fight for his life.

The mother and two sisters of the accused youth are the other women on which the defense is basing its case.

Little was expected to develop from today's preliminary hearing.

The report of Medical Examiner Magrath on the stains found on Amaral's coat and also on the rug of his car is not yet completed and until this report is finished no definite action in the case is expected.

LABOR PARTY FACES ANOTHER CRISIS

London, May 28 (A.P.).—Parliamentary experts declare the government will again be faced with a serious crisis, in tomorrow's session of the House of Commons, when the Conservatives re-introduce their motion to reduce the Minister of Labor's salary. This motion was talked out last Thursday after a closure division in which the government had a majority of only 34. Several Conservatives were absent and the promoters of the movement believe that with the presence of these members and the abstention of a section of the Liberals, they will be able to defeat the government

GILLEY, AIDE TO GOODWIN, IS WED AGAIN

Charles R. Gilley, chief clerk in the office of Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles put one over. But he wasn't alone.

The marriage of Gilley, once divorced, to Mrs. Marion Clark Whitney, twenty-eight-year-old divorcee, of No. 195 Austin street, Newtonville, was set for today.

Today, however, Rev. J. Edgar Park of Newtonville returned to the Newton and Somerville city halls marriage licenses taken out by the couple. They were signed as of May 21 and now it is Mr. and Mrs. Gilley.

News that the marriage was planned leaked out two months ago, despite all efforts to keep it secret.

According to the bride she and Gilley had known each other for a year, but the courtship was officially charted as of two months' duration.

Gilley was divorced from his first wife on September 23, 1919, on a cruel and abusive charge. The custody of two children, Doris and John, was awarded her.

The new Mrs. Gilley obtained a divorce from her first husband, Harry P. Whitney, on the same charge, and was awarded custody of their only child, Winslow C.

Springfield Church Is Moved to Escape Smoke

Springfield, May 28.—There are two ways of keeping smoke from begriming a church—stop the smoke or move the church.

In Springfield they move the church. The First Church was being stifled by dust, cinders and just smoke from the gas company plant in Water street.

The parish committee thought it all over and decided on the plan of taking the church out of there to the west end of Court square extension, where there wasn't any smoke.

Now a lot of money will be saved because it won't be necessary to paint the building so often.

8-YEAR-OLD BOY HAD 200 MISSING LETTERS

New London, May 28.—More than 200 letters for the Brainerd and Armstrong plant of the Corticelli Silk Company, some of which contained checks for amounts as high as $3,000 were found in the possession of an eight-year-old boy

The letters were taken from the postoffice box when postoffice authorities believe the box was left unlocked by a mail orderly of the concern.

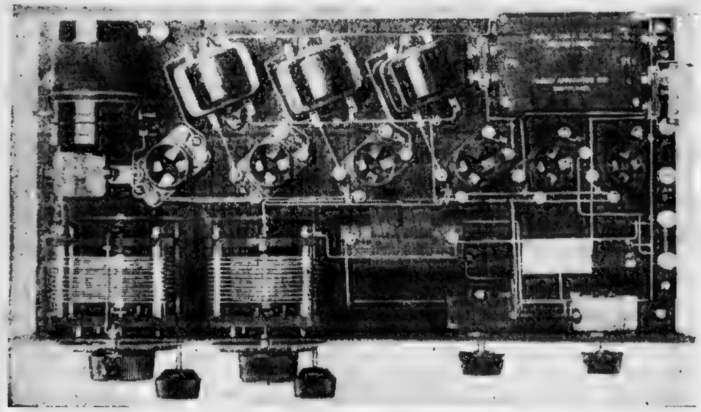
HOW THE COMPLETED RECEIVER LOOKS



THE BABY GIANT SUPERHETERODYNE

This view of the completed set will show you how the wiring is done. Because of the use of a metal panel and the carefully studied arrangement of parts, the wiring is very simple, and there is a minimum of fancy bends and contortionist soldering. When correctly wired, there is no need of spaghetti, as the wires will be sufficiently separated. When wiring the set, the photos above should be used in conjunction with the drawing of the hookup published last week.

1. Start at antenna binding post and run a wire to binding post on left of antenna coil.

2. Connect the centre lug of left-hand variable condenser to the first indicator button, which is grounded to panel.

3. Connect a wire from the first F terminal from left socket nearest to M. F. transformer to the screw between F and P, holding down socket. Repeat this on all six sockets. Be sure to tighten all nuts and screws.

4. Take a wire and connect the left-hand socket F terminal (the one nearest to front of panel) with all other F terminals in a similar way, forming a straight wire along all six sockets.

5. From the grid terminal on second socket from left, run a wire to the lug opposite, on first M. F. Transformer, which will be market "G." Repeat this operation on tubes two and four included, and the three transformers.

6. From P on first socket from left, run a wire to first terminal of primary of first M. F. Transformer. Repeat this operation on tubes one, two and three and M. F. Transformers.

7. Run a wire from the other primary terminal of the first M. F. Transformer to like terminals of the other two M. F. Transformers. [illegible] tinue this straight through to [illegible] ing post bridge and solder on [illegible] lug. Now continue same wire to second last binding post on the bridge which is marked "tel." Make a right angle bend at end of bridge and continue through, going under rheostat and potentiometer, to point opposite first binding post from left, on top of oscillator coil. Now bend up at right angle, about two inches, and again bend and connect with terminal.

8. Connect wire from nearest primary terminal of 30 K. C. transformer to wire below, which connects to B-plus.

9. Take a wire and join other 30 K. C. transformer primary terminal with terminal P of third socket from binding post bridge.

10. Run a wire from 30 K. C. transformer [illegible] to panel.

11. Next [illegible] condenser on 30 K. C. transformer to terminal "G" on second socket from binding post bridge.

12. Connect one wire to the three secondary terminals of M. F. transformers together.

13. Solder a wire to the above mentioned wire and connect it with center binding post on potentiometer.

14. Run a wire from binding post on antenna coil (the one nearly directly over ground binding post), underneath coil leave ⅛ inch between wire and coil and connect it with first grid condenser and continue on and connect with Stator terminal of first variable condenser.

15. Connect a wire from binding post on antenna coil (the one nearest first socket) to binding post on oscillator coil opposite [illegible] left.

16. From centre connection on second variable condenser, run a wire across the gear to the side terminal on oscillator coil opposite fourth socket from left. Continue wire through to "G" of last socket on right.

17. Run wire from stator connection of second variable [illegible] the second top terminal [illegible] oscillator co[illegible] P on last socket.

18. Next run a wire from [illegible] terminal of rheostat to A minus binding post.

19. Run a wire from P of first socket from left to other "tel" binding post.

20. Next take a wire from top terminal of rheostat and run over [illegible] terminal of potentiometer [illegible] on to the long wire which [illegible] all F terminals on sockets.

21. From bottom terminal on potentiometer run a wire to screw on left hand end of .3 M. F. condenser and ground to panel.

22. On opposite end of .3 M. F. condenser run a wire from one terminal of this condenser to screw directly below. The other terminal [illegible] with the [illegible] parallel with binding post bridge.

This completes the wiring. The photographic illustrations should be followed closely when wiring, as this will make the wiring explanations clearer.

JOHN COOLIDGE WITH "BABY GIANT"

John Coolidge, the President's father, has no use for a telephone, but the Baby Giant Superheterodyne has made him an ardent radio fan. When his distinguished son speaks Friday afternoon at the Arlington Memorial Amphitheater, the familiar voice will be heard in the little farmhouse in Plymouth, Vt. The picture above shows the President's father trying out the new set for the first time.

ON THE AIR LAST NIGHT

By THE LISTENER

Last night was Boston American night from WNAC. Aside from the excellent selections furnished by William Dodge and his orchestra, all [illegible] Mr. Harold Hall. His subject was "Thrills of a Reporter" and, for me, his talk certainly was full of thrills. Of particular interest was Mr. Hall's description of his first meeting with [illegible] President Harding.

Some baritone solos worthy of comment were in the air. Angelo Boschetti, noted baritone, was one of the features of the concert of the Boston American Philharmonic Orchestra concert at WNAC, the Shepard Stores, Boston. His voice was as clear as a bell. At WJAR, another baritone sang.

I believe his name was A. Luigori. To say that he could sing would be putting it mildly.

Without doubt [illegible] event of the day was the $1000 prize debate from WNAC. The title [illegible] not in favor of a modification of the Volstead Act?" seemed a good one. When we hear so much about Prohibition and Rum [illegible] a legitimate discussion of the matter by responsible persons is always of interest.

For speakers on [illegible] presented their arguments in a com[illegible] seemed [illegible] came [illegible] prize.

At 9.20 WBF the United Fruit Company's [illegible] Board of Trade [illegible] started [illegible] Steamer Zacapa [illegible] This transmission gave me some interference on 360 meters, but was not of long [illegible]

[illegible] disappointment like mine last night? Was listening around the shorter waves and picked up some broadcasting station a little below where I usually get WTAT. A man was singing a [illegible] of Mine," and it seemed the best I have ever heard it sung.

But 'lass' when the announcer came on at the end of the piece, the station faded away like the "Flying Dutchman," and I haven't been able to find out who it was.

WTAB in Fall River [illegible] the proverbial [illegible] on my set last night. I [illegible] WNAC. [illegible]

I thought the quality from the microphone was a lot better than the last time I heard this station.

Last night as a whole was a favorable night for reception. The [illegible]

GENEWICH KEEPS PHILLIES DOWN IN SECOND

The second game was safe all the way with Genewich [illegible] in good form while the first was a real battle. The Braves started as if they intended to make a short day of it, but an error by Tierney in the eighth [illegible] started a hostile rally that never stopped until the [illegible] 4.

Gibson [illegible] triple and Tierney's [illegible] and the team seemed to be [illegible]

In the eighth there was [illegible] for our men. Wrightstone started an upheaval when he drove a [illegible] grounder close to second base [illegible] Tierney fumbled just long enough to permit the runner to reach first. Carlson forced him at second, Tierney making a magnificent play [illegible] speedy [illegible] Sand followed with a hit to left and Mokan smashed out his second double, scoring Carlson. Sand who had reached third was run out by O'Neil on Williams' hit to Gibson. Mokan and Williams advancing a base on the run-up.

Henline came through with [illegible] to right that scored both [illegible] ners and [illegible]

Casey Stengel

The Phils [illegible] made [illegible] gesture in the ninth when with two out Wrightstone hit for two bases, but Barnes struck out Carlson.

In the tenth O'Neil raised hopes of the fans when he singled through the box. Barnes performed the sacrificial act and Powell was passed. Bancroft filed to Williams and Cunningham also walked. Here came Gibson's sizzling hit and a triumph for the Braves.

The second game was a dizzy round of two-base hits, no less than [illegible] dotting the score card. The Phillies had a shade on the Braves in the long drives, recording six of the total.

The visitors scored a run right off the reel [illegible] a pass to Mokan was followed by a two-ply smash by Walker. The Braves came right back with two on Powell's walk, a double by Cunningham, who was also fiendish in his hitting, and a single by Gibson.

ITALIAN BIKE CHAMP AT REVERE

Two riders who never before started in a bike race at the Revere Cycle track will make their appearance tonight in the 30-mile paced race. They are Pasquale Valentini and Marcel Godivier.

Valentini is the champion pace follower of Italy. Already the Milan youth has won three victories since he arrived in America. Last Sunday he finished first in the Harry E. [illegible] Memorial Race at the New York Velodrome. "Val's" riding was compared to the late lamented Harry Elkes for whose memory the race was named.

Godivier, too, will come into consideration if he flashes any of the speed that gave him the distinction of being termed the wonder man of France. The other starters include Henri Wyesdau of Belgium and Clarence Carman. When this quartet gets going at full speed atop the steeped banked track, the railbirds are certain to be up from their seats encouraging their silken-clad favorite in their mad whirl for fame and fortune.

Frank Depanni, an Italian boy, will substitute for Lloyd Thomas in the special sprint match with Frank Bartel of Providence. Thomas was hurt and wired he was not in condition to race.

RUBE MARQUARD SLIGHTLY BETTER

Cincinnati, O., May [illegible].—"Rube" Marquard, pitcher of the Boston Braves, who is ill in a hospital here, was reported to be slightly improved today. Marquard developed a case of acute indigestion following his recent operation for appendicitis and was in a grave condition over Saturday and Sunday. A good night's rest Monday, however, imparted more strength and hospital physicians said he was a little better today.

LEADING COLLEGE CREWS IN HENLEY

Philadelphia, May 28.—Entries for the twentieth annual regatta of the American [illegible] should today show that all the important college crews in the East will be represented in the American Henley on the Schuylkill River next Saturday.

The Childs Cup race between Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania will be rowed at the same time as the Stewards' Challenge Cup race and will be a part of the event.

FLOCK OF GAMES FOR PARAGON NINE

On the holiday afternoon the Paragon Associates nine will meet the Gate of Heaven nine of South Boston at Boston Common at 3 o'clock. On Saturday afternoon May 31 the Paragons will meet the Calumets at Everett. This is also a Greater Boston League game. Clifford will pitch the opener Friday while Faulkner will be on the mound Saturday.

RED SOX PLAY TWO GAMES WITH MACKMEN TODAY

Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.—[illegible] best thing the Red Sox do these [illegible] Athletics was [illegible] over, due to a heavy [illegible] with the result that two games are [illegible]

Though the majority of the players condemned the weather it gives the Red Sox a break in the pitching department for Howard Ehmke will be eligible to hurl one of the two pastimes, something that would have been passed up were the club to play yesterday.

Ehmke

Then again that ailing digit of Dudley Lee's gives all signs of being in condition for one of the Mackmen's series, which is a break for our fast traveling locals.

Though the club has played sterling baseball at times without the Tulsa star in the line-up, his presence will add 100 per cent. to the defence playing of the team.

This is essential at this time for the "A's" have recovered from their losing streak as the three victories over the St. Louis Browns will prove. Then again, Hasty and Rommel are starting to show streaks of their 1923 pitching form, which isn't at all elating to the heavy stickers of the Boston club.

Burns and Meeker will probably pitch for the Elephants in the double bill today. The latter is a southpaw upon whom Connie Mack is resting considerable hope of getting back into the Ban Johnson fight.

Fortunate as the Sox may be regarding the lay-off, an accident happened to Bill Piercy today that may cause him to do more bench warming.

Bill [illegible] a foul of one of Curt Fullerton's fast ones that made it necessary for the doctor to use the needle for three paces on Williams [illegible] Should [illegible] up [illegible] to be taking that course tonight, Piercy's chances of starting in this series look slim.

RECORDS GO IN SCHOOLBOY MEET

Five records were broken at the seventh annual outdoor meeting of the Boston High schools yesterday at Tech Field, Cambridge. The senior one-lap relay record was splintered while four field event marks were broken by the schoolboy contestants.

Thrilling competition featured the sixteenth annual track carnival of the Latin and Day High Schools which were staged at [illegible] No records were bettered in this meet.

Leo Daley's Hyde Park High relay quartet broke the one-mile relay record. His team raced a mile in 3m. 41 4-5s, which breaks the old mark of 3m. 45 2-5s, which was made by Jamaica Plain High in 1922.

F. J. Driscoll of South Boston High broke the intermediate shot put record for district schools with a heave of 43 feet 4¾ inches. Gus Carr of East Boston High put the eight-pound shot 40 feet 11 inches back in 1920 and that was the old record. Sam Smythe from Hyde Park High hopped 5 feet 3 inches to a new intermediate high jump mark. The old figure was 5 feet ⅝ of an inch, made by Walter Van Hall of Jamaica Plain High in 1922.

J. G. Wilczewski, another Hyde Park High lad, broke the senior shot putting mark, when he tossed the 12-pound ball 42 feet 7¼ inches. The best previous mark by a district high school lad was 40 feet [illegible] inches, by Tom Lydon of Brighton High in 1922. M. Sims [illegible] of East Boston High broke the old record when as a junior he cleared 8 feet 2¼ inches in [illegible] jump. McLEOD LEADING FIELD AT WORCESTER WITH CARD OF 72

NO UPSETS IN FIRST DAY

Worcester, Mass., May 28.—Freddy McLeod, a great little golf player from the Columbus Country Club, Washington, tutor of more than one president of the United States and many other famous men, including Edward B. McLean, and himself a celebrity because he once won the open golf championship of the United States, is leading a fine field after the first 18 holes of the 36 hole qualifying test for the Eastern players who wish to compete in the open championship next week at Oakland Hills, Detroit.

McLeod had a brilliant card which read 36-36-72. [illegible] others [illegible] break [illegible] The golf [illegible] the [illegible] Worcester [illegible] club was [illegible] and the [illegible] so well [illegible] that there will be a fine fight [illegible] 41 [illegible] tees which have [illegible] allotted to the Eastern [illegible] in the open.

CADDY HAD TO URGE McLEOD TO LET DOWN

McLeod was right today. Sam, the famous [illegible] caddy from Pinehurst who carried for McLeod, said that he had to urge his man to let down, he was going so strong.

It was sixteen years ago that McLeod won the open championship at Myopia and he again finds himself leading a qualifying field in the [illegible] event. Much water has flown [illegible] the [illegible] since then but McLeod had [illegible] always been up [illegible]

Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge, was right behind McLeod with a 73 and there were a number of good ones tied for third at 74, including Jess Guilford, of Boston, former national amateur champion and the only amateur golfer who is likely to go to Detroit from this half of the qualifying field of the 154 starters. 45 returned cards of 80 or better.

MASTER AND PUPIL WILL HAVE IT OUT IN RING

By JACK CONWAY.

Young Tansey, fast, clever boxer and heavy puncher, will make a stout-hearted bid for Eddie Shevlin's title as New England welterweight champion when he clashes with the title holder in a ten round bout at the Arena A. C.'s show at the Boston Arena tomorrow night.

Tansey was formerly Shevlin's sparring partner. He says he [illegible] the Dartmouth professor so [illegible] that the latter dropped [illegible] Tansey, whose real name is Norton, is very popular in Roxbury and [illegible] will not lack for backers tomorrow night. It will be the old story [illegible] where the gallery gods will root for a youngster to topple the champion.

Tansey has done some [illegible] fighting around the New England circuit. He has won twenty [illegible] bouts during the past year, which [illegible] a record few boxers can boast [illegible] He then stepped into Boston and walloped Fighting Bob Lowry after the latter had gained fame by defeating Nate Siegal.

If Tansey expects to find Shevlin easy, he is due for a rude awakening. Eddie won over Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, O., [illegible] last start which was at Pittsburgh. The decision of the judges and referee was unanimous. Shevlin displayed all of his cunning [illegible] and pep in the encounter. He is disturbed over the charges made by Tansey to the effect their recent bout was postponed because the champion [illegible] cold feet. Shevlin says he will avenge himself by knocking out his Roxbury rival tomorrow night.

SPEED REO WAGON

Thousands of Speed Wagons are engaged in city delivery, where loads seldom total more than 500 lbs, and where vehicle agility is vital.

Other thousands serve in rural haulage, where 2500 lb. loads are daily hauled over highway routes where sand, mud and hills must be met and mastered.

Speed Wagon economy is conspicuously evident in each instance.

HARTRANFT IS LELAND'S OUTSTANDING STAR.

The outstanding athlete on the team, and the country, by the way, is Glen Hartranft, called the human howitzer. This giant astonished the [illegible]

The team has not been defeated [illegible] defeated the University of [illegible] [illegible] Southern California [illegible] the University [illegible] about 51 to 70.

ANDERSON CAN DO OVER SIX FEET IN HIGH JUMP.

[illegible] feet 9 in. for the broad jump and Ludeke has tossed the hammer over [illegible] feet. These men are above the ordinary and are bound to push the Eastern stars to the limit.

Plump, meaty green olives give flavor to BAKED FISH

BAKED fish, garlanded by a circle of halved green olives— what a treat for the hungry. And how those meaty slices of green olives do add to the flavor of the fish. Green olives blend wonderfully with other foods. By themselves, no other appetizer can equal their appeal. Eat green olives often. They are good for you. Write for a copy of our free folder, which gives a number of delightful and surprising green olive recipes.

CHICKIE

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

LEAVING that weakness; that lashing fright [illegible] grabbing up her hat [illegible] running and running. She [illegible] it was [illegible] some far, hidden spot. And [illegible] no one would ever learn of this [illegible]

[illegible]

He surveyed her with a touch of [illegible] his head. "Some [illegible]

[illegible] her hands clasped before [illegible] the table—saw the [illegible] sharply. He leaned down and [illegible] "Chickie [illegible] too much [illegible] You [illegible] It's a sweet [illegible] just [illegible] and see [illegible] I'm telling you [illegible] Now see here—[illegible] old dog come wagging along for comfort won't you?"

She smiled, but didn't raise her eyes. And the [illegible] sweetness that was in her [illegible] soft childlike throat [illegible] always had. "You [illegible] you, my dear?"

She said [illegible] need comfort, Jake [illegible]

[illegible] You think that I think you're the dames [illegible] I think you're the dearest [illegible]

She reached for her gloves, feeling that in another moment [illegible] would be coming [illegible] "For which kind words, I thank you and adjourn, Mr. Jake."

"Now [illegible] you're not offended, Chickie? Why, my dear—"

She interrupted hastily: "Not offended, Jake—only in a hurry—"

"You don't mean to [illegible] me down [illegible] like this, Chickie! [illegible] down the country [illegible]"

[illegible] good to me—" [illegible]

[illegible] hastily: "I wouldn't have said that, Chickie, but I didn't think you were feeling quite so sombre. See here—well, I'm going to drive you home, anyway [illegible] mouth was pale. He looked at her intently. "Chickie, my dear, I ask you to forgive that—please—"

Now she was able to answer lightly. "What? Forgive you for thinking me lucky? Oh, I don't mind that at all, Jake. Honest!"

"Only you don't agree. Is that it, Chickie?"

"Perhaps."

"Well, Helena [illegible] I'm [illegible] the loosed [illegible] and [illegible] others and there are [illegible] sorrows [illegible] But there are [illegible] that can be yours [illegible] —there are the fine happy things that you can grab. So Helena dear—that's lucky. Suppose you begin today. Let me have [illegible]"

"Oh, some other time, Jake. You see I promised—"

"Now look here, Chickie, you're not going to pull the Jennie gag on me again, are you? You're not going to tell me you promised Jennie you'd help make a cherry pie, are you? I'll ram it down your throat if you do."

"Let me off then, today, Jake—"

How long does it take for a cancer to form? How can a person tell if he has a cancer? M. G. B.

It is impossible to say how long it will take for a cancer to form. As a rule they are not diagnosed until they have progressed to such an extent that they produce some physical disturbance. It depends wholly upon the location of the cancer as to what pain it may produce.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THE insurance companies claim that the best kind of burglar alarm on the market is a watch dog. This may be all right, but once in a while you get hold of a dog who used to belong to a union and he won't bark after six o'clock.

HE wouldn't even growl unless you paid him overtime.

NOT only that, but some of them want time and a half on Sundays and holidays.

NO dog, who is true to his local would think of sinking his teeth into a pair of union-made [illegible].

NEVER pick up a mongrel off the street and leave him in your house to watch it. He's liable to go down stairs at night and open the front door for the burglars.

ONE man had five guaranteed watch dogs, but they wouldn't bite anything unless it was on a plate.

ALL they ever chewed up was the guarantee.

ONE of the dogs was so old that he had pyorrhea.

EVERY time he wanted to bite a burglar he had to run upstairs to get his teeth.

AND when there's a burglar breaking into the house it's no time for a watchdog to be hunting around for his bridgework.

THE safest way to protect your valuables is to keep the dog in the house at night and put your money and jewels in his kennell.

The Helping Hand

Downhearted and Worried

Editor Helping Hand

I have heard of so many unfortunates like myself you have helped I am pleading to you downhearted and worried. I have a good husband who is struggling to do all he can and can't do any more. We have the rent to pay whether we eat or not. We have three small children, two boys, five and nine and a baby girl three. It's worrying us to see them not properly clothed. I myself haven't a change so please, please will you try to help me? I wear size thirty-eight and so does hubby.

Mrs. M. C. McK.

Coat for Girl

Editor Helping Hand

Will you please send me the address of a girl over fifteen or a small woman in need of a coat? I also have a gray hat in excellent condition which might prove useful to a young woman. Is there anyone who has a little girl about four who would want a girl's woolen dress? It could easily be made into a little dress by someone who can sew. I would like to send to the mother who takes the dress a fine heavy brushed wool scarf and sport hat.

Mrs. W. F. H.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of Mrs. C. G., a small woman and of Mrs. P. J. G., who has three small girls, three, four and five, and is handy in making over.

For Deserted Mother

Editor Helping Hand

Can you find someone who could call for these few things as soon as possible as I am moving in a week's time and would like to dispose of them. A dark green tweed suit, size 40. A tan suit which needs a little cleaning, size 38 to 40. A tan and brown sailor hat and a plain tan hat. A blue jersey dress, size 38.

Mrs. H. W. D.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of Mrs. A. M. J., a young deserted mother, who will be overjoyed at the things you offer and have written asking her to call for them.

Generously Cared for

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to thank you for giving my appeal such prompt attention. Mrs. G. B. of Roxbury called here Monday and brought me quite a few things. She has made arrangements for a taxi to take me to the hospital and through a society she belongs to is going to help me place the baby until I get on my feet again. She is also going to bring me some dresses for my five-year-old. Mrs. M. R. C. of Norwood sent me a box of baby clothes. Mrs. B. is also going to try to help me through her Society with my hospital bill. Accept my heartfelt thanks for the truly helping hand you have extended to me. MRS. A. B. A.

It does one's heart good to know there are such generous people in the world. Mrs. A. B. A. was deserted by her husband and expects a baby most any time now.

Needs a Bed

Editor Helping Hand.

Have any of the readers an old three-quarters bed, spring and mattress to let me have? I am very poor, have five small children, and as my father is staying with me I need another bed. My father is lame and sick and is hardly able to work. I have an empty room but no bed to put in it. Mrs. C. R. G.

New York Stock Market Spotty With Several Railroads Selling Higher

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Does faith or our own fists deal out the blows we receive going through life?

"As a man thinketh, so is he," says the Bible. Could it not be said, "as a man worketh, so is he?"

Here are two gripping, dramatic pages, one recording a tragedy, the other an idyl, from the annals of America's immigrant labor.

The first speaks of a Lithuanian worker in the steel mills at the end of a lifetime of toil in America:

"I am a broken old man, physically. The best years of my life were spent facing hell's fire in the steel blast furnaces of Pennsylvania. There I helped with my muscle, and at the cost of great weariness, to complete the work which nature started but failed to finish.

"As a reward for my efforts I am practically independent, in a material sense. My wife has gone to her just reward these many years past. Her grave lies among these hills. Flowers will barely grow upon her grave. The damned dust that is in my lungs and which gives me and my friends no peace—because I cough continuously—also covers her grave. This seems terribly logical to me.

"My children have grown up. They are educated and the education given them by America has taken them from me. I speak English only as an untaught alien can speak it. But my children know all the slang phrases and they can even speak English with negro, Irish and Dutch dialects. They speak differently, they act differently, and when they come to visit me they come alone. They do not explain why they do not bring their friends but instinctively I sense the season. They should not fear. I would not cause them any embarrassment. But they, too, look upon their old father as an inferior, an alien, a roundhead, a bohunk.

"So my only consolation is my memory. And strange as it may seem, my experiences in America are not the ones that crowd my thoughts. No, it is the memory of my childhood days in far away Lithuania."

Look upon that picture, taken from "Memoirs of a Steel Worker," published by the foreign language information service paper, "The Interpreter," and upon this, which I have obtained from another (Welsh) immigrant steel worker, David J. Davis, father of James J. Davis, now Secretary of Labor in the Cabinet of the President of the United States.

"It is true that I am almost blind as a result of watching molten iron through the peephole of a puddler's furnace. But I am satisfied. Life has brought to me much of real happiness. I have acquired a competence and my own home.

"As I sit here on my front porch I can see the blazing stacks of the mills where for many years I earned a livelihood for me and mine. I have my faithful wife by my side. Those blazing stacks remind me of the days when things were not so easy for us as they are now, when the wolf was at the door day after day. But we fought our way through, and deep in my heart I am grateful that my children, despite our earlier struggles, have grown up to be real Americans.

"To achieve that result we worked and saved when working and saving called for sacrifice. To make my children real Americans I stood for thirty years before the same furnace, wrestling with the unwieldy iron.

"But I know now that while I worked I was doing my part toward the development of the greatest period of progress the world has ever known—the age of steel. I know that my muscle and skill have gone to the building up of those things which have made the America of today the greatest nation on earth.

MASS. GAS OFF TO FRESH LOW IN BOSTON

New York stock market was spotty around noon today, with several railroads selling higher.

Reactionary price movements in evidence yesterday were checked to some extent at the opening of today's stock market.

Several market leaders, including U. S. Steel, Baldwin and Anaconda, opened higher, but some of the other shares, notably the motors and oils, drifted irregularly lower.

RUBBER AT LOW.

Norfolk & Western advanced 1⅛, leading a number of rail issues higher before profit-taking appeared. Coca-Cola dropped more than a point.

U. S. Rubber 1st pfd. sold at a new low, off 2¾ at 66½; the common lowered a point.

U. S. Steel sold ex-dividend, unchanged to ⅛ up.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, Massachusetts Gas sold at a new low, off ½ at 71¼. American Telephone rights were unchanged, as was also New England Telephone. American Woolen pfd. was off ½ at 98. Calumet & Hecla was fractionally higher.

Dodgeville mill of B. B. & R. Knight Co. will be closed permanently in about three months, upon completion of work now being finished, according to statement at hearing before Bristol county commissioners on petition asking for abatement of taxes assessed in 1923 on local mills of corporation. An accountant said neither Dodgeville nor Hebronville mills made a profit last year.

CONGRESS AND MARKET.

Price movements in the stock market seem to have been governed largely in recent sessions by legislative developments in Washington. Selling, based on the passage of the Bursum pension bill a few weeks ago, was followed by a rally when that measure was vetoed and another when the veto was sustained.

Prices turned reactionary when Congress first voted in favor of the soldier bonus, but stiffened later when Wall street heard reports that the President's veto might be sustained. Subsequent enactment of the bonus bill over the veto caused a sharp break, which was modified later by the reaching of an agreement by the Senate and House conferees on the tax bill and its subsequent approval by both branches of Congress.

When the tax bill is finally disposed of, the McNary-Haugen bill for farm relief and the postal salaries bill are expected to become dominant market factors.

New York Curb

New York Curb was mixed: United Retail Candy 5⅛, off ⅛; Creole Syndicate 5⅜, off ⅛; Hudson & Manhattan common 16; Radio 3⅜, up ⅛; Centrifugal Iron Pipe 27; Standard Oil of Indiana 57¼, off ⅛; Ohio Oil 61⅜, off ¼; Carib Syndicate 4.

Three New England States Hold Corn Raising Records

Some people are too ready to thing of New England farms as all "run down."

Secretary Leonard H. Healey of the Connecticut Board of Agriculture points out to the financial editor of the Boston American that our farmers are "still there."

He says, discussing corn poducts: "For the year 1921 Vermont held the record with a yield of 42 bushels per acre. For the year 1922 Connecticut held the record with a yield of 45 bushels per acre. For 1923 Massachusetts held the record with a yield of 43 bushels per acre. These figures are average yields, not miximum individual yields."

Rail Shares Feature

Railroad shares are day by day features of the present stock market.

A score of leading dividend paying stocks are in the following table, giving their approximate current prices, dividend yield, high and low prices for 1924 to date and price a year ago. Norfolk & Western has had a considerable advance on lease negotiations, and Southern Railway on beginning of dividends. Chicago & North Western has had an extensive decline from its level last year accompanying reduction in dividend rate. As compared with former higher prices for Reading and Lehigh Valley, allowance, of course, should be made for the fact that they are now ex-rights.

There is no one in the employ of the Commonwealth whose duty it is to sell the advantages of the port of Boston to shippers. Yet millions have been spent on establishing the "plant".

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1924

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

If all New England got behind the movement to boom Boston shipping, the port would take its place as second to New York by a margin so wide as never to be threatened.

All New England Should Get Behind Movement to 'Sell' Port of Boston's Advantages to Shippers of World

The Boston American's Minute Man editorial of last week attempted to show how certain industrial interests in New England were taking advantage of the seaports in this region, particularly the great port of Boston. Also how other interests could use the facilities of these ports to their own and the community's advantage.

This week the Boston American wants to specialize on the great "natural" port of Boston, pointing out its advantages to shippers and offering a suggestion to Massachusetts taxpayers, who have an investment of upwards of $20,000,000 in its shipping facilities.

Recently a United States government report, setting forth the results of a survey of the country's seaports, stated:

"Boston is one of the most important ports in the United States, considered from both its facilities and the extent and value of its commerce."

It is all of that, and more.

Historically, it is the birthplace of America's foreign commerce. For many years after the settlement of Boston it was the ranking port of the American colonies. After it had yielded place to New York, it remained the second port in the country, and still holds that place in the matter of import tonnage.

Physically, it is one of the six great natural seaports of the United States. Harbor engineers refer to ports which combine geographical and topographical advantages in a marked degree as natural ports.

Boston is nearer to the Suez and Panama canals, nearer to the great ports of Europe, nearer to East coast ports in South America and nearer to Mediterranean and Near East ports than New York. It is as near to the points where grain and flour and packing house exports originate in the central States—these being the principal exports of America—as New York.

The harbor is broad, deep sheltered, deep channelled and has sixty square miles of safe anchorage. From the furthermost piers to the open sea is only nine miles. Nine miles of broad, deep, safe channels. The facilities of the port are not surpassed anywhere, nor in many respects equalled in the United States.

Its biggest drydock is the only one in either Europe or America that can accommodate the giant liners of the Majestic-Leviathan type.

Its ship repair facilities are equal to any task which modern shipping may demand of them.

Each of its three great railway systems have fast terminal facilities for quick handling of both inward and outward cargo.

Freight trains run onto the piers, a few feet away from the hatches of ships in the docks alongside. The port has long had an enviable reputation for quick turnovers of cargo. The Union Freight and Grand Junction Railways enable freight cars on one of the big railway systems to be quickly and easily switched to the ship terminals of each of the other systems.

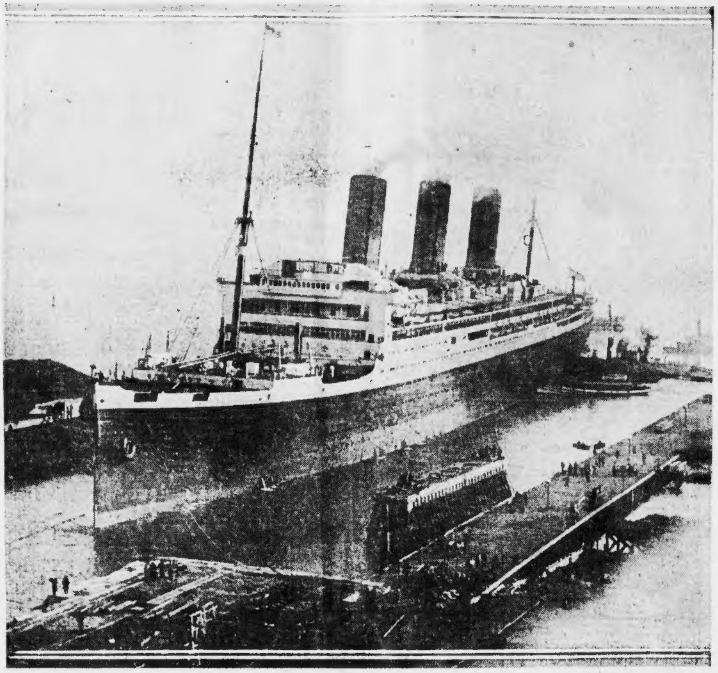
The piers and wharves of the harbor number 203, great and small, ranging from the Army Base pier in South Boston, with a full mile of docking space, to small privately owned lumber and coal wharves in the tributary streams flowing into the harbor.

The taxpayers of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts have an investment of $20,921,039.50 in Boston harbor. This great sum has been spent on piers, the big dry dock, filling in harbor flats, and otherwise improving the natural advantages of the port.

Yet there is no one in the employ of the Commonwealth whose duty it is to sell these advantages to shippers. Little ports like Charleston, South Carolina, and Galveston, Texas, have representatives in all of the big points of origin for American exports endeavoring, and succeeding, in interesting big shippers in their ports.

Montreal, which is ice free only six months in the year, employs agents to solicit business for that port.

Massachusetts has spent $1,654,369.85 on Boston harbor proper, $2,623,652.96 on the East Boston flats, $6,598,287.24 on the South Boston flats, $4,063,187.49 on Commonwealth Pier No. 5, South Boston, and $1,118,570 on the Commonwealth Pier No. 1, East Boston. It spent $3,164,651.15 on the South Boston Drydock, acquired by the navy during the war. Lesser sums have been spent elsewhere in the harbor.



Boston harbor is broad, sheltered, deep channelled and has sixty square miles of safe anchorage. From the furthermost piers to the open sea is only nine miles. Nine miles of broad, deep, safe channels. The facilities of the port are not surpassed anywhere, nor in many respects equalled in the United States. Its biggest drydock is the only one in either Europe or America that can accommodate the giant liners of the Majestic-Leviathan type. Its ship repair facilities are equal to any task which modern shipping may demand of them. The photograph shows the giant steamship Majestic easing into the Commonwealth Drydock at Boston, where the palatial liner underwent a thorough cleaning and scraping of the hull and sides.

The United States has spent $13,838,751 on channel improvements in the harbor and its tributaries, the Mystic, Malden, Neponset, Weymouth Fore and Back rivers.

The War Department spent approximately $27,000,000 in erecting the great Army Bases Pier in South Boston, which is now in the hands of a Boston corporation and used to accommodate ocean commerce.

The Navy Department has spent other millions on port improvements, available to the merchant marine.

What private interests have spent, including railroads and other public service corporations, sugar refineries, fishing interests, coal companies, etc., cannot be computed. It will run into scores of millions, if not into hundreds of millions. The Boston & Albany Railroad spent $5,000,000 improving its East Boston terminals just before the war. The Boston & Maine Railroad has two big terminals on the Charles and Mystic rivers on which many millions have been spent. The New Haven Railroad also has a costly terminal in South Boston.

There are three big grain elevators in the port, with combined capacities for 250,000,000 bushels of grain.

Yet there is nobody whose duty it is to tell the world about this great establishment. We need men who can talk the language of the traffic world to do it.

Of course, the steamship lines and railroads have enterprising agents out soliciting business, but each is pulling for his own line or road.

The need is for capable, energetic, alert agents to go out and sell the port of Boston to the packing houses, the grain exporters, the flour mills, the cotton gins, the lumber mills and the steel mills.

These men should be able to tell shippers when their goods could leave Boston for Liverpool. Not when it could leave on a Sprague ship, or a Cunarder, or any other particular line.

They should be able to help the shipper route his export freight to Boston, without reference to any particular railway.

According to th[illegible]eau of research of the United States Shipping Board, Boston ranked as the ninth in the United States in the volume of its foreign commerce. It was second in imports and twenty-second in exports. In 1923 Boston jumped into fifth rank, being exceeded only by New York, New Orleans, Philadelphia and Baltimore in total tonnage.

This upward trend in rank is partly due to newly organized agencies for encouraging shipping at this port, but in a much greater degree it is due to the natural advantages of Boston, which will not be denied.

Ocean commerce naturally gravitates to Boston.

What would happen if all New England got behind the movement to boom shipping here? Answer: The port would quickly take its accustomed place at the head of the secondary ports of the United States by a margin so wide that its rank would never again be threatened. New York will always be the port of first rank in America, for the same reason that Boston should always be second, viz., its natural advantages.

It is true that Boston shipping is throttled by unfair rail rate differentials, which put a premium on shipping through Baltimore, Philadelphia, New Orleans and lesser ports to the southward. These rates should have been abolished years ago. But with them in force the port of Boston raises its rank from ninth port to fifth port in one year.

If earnest, sustained, determined efforts on the part of New England business, New England's senators and representatives in Washington, and other New England men in high position were made, these rates could be abolished. The matter has been before the Interstate Commerce Commission for a year or more.

The justice of our claim is beyond cavil. New England men in Washington should raise such a tumult on Capitol Hill that the whole country would ring with it. And they would, too, if the people back home showed some interest in it.

Shortly there will arise on the Mystic River marshes a big blast furnace for the production of pig iron. When the project was first announced it seemed chimerical. It was asked: How can Boston, far from the coal and iron mines, compete in the production [illegible] pig iron with communities having these raw materials at their door?

But the proposition is not the wild dream of some enthusiastic promoter. It was born in the brains of business men who studied every phase of it before making a decision.

This new industry will be due, primarily, to the natural advantages of Boston harbor. The New England Fuel & Transportation Company, one of the great Boston corporations, manufacturing illuminating gas in large quantities in Everett, is back of it. As a by-product it produces large quantities of excellent metallurgical coke. This coke it has hitherto marketed with difficulty.

The company already owns a fleet of big colliers and a fleet of harbor and bay tugs. These fleets can be enlarged economically at the present time, due to the number of idle ships that are for sale.

Iron ore can be brought here from Spain, Cuba and other foreign mines at costs not greatly in excess of lake transportation. The harbor is not closed for many months in the year as the lake ports are.

The third raw material used in smelting iron, limestone, can be obtained in the nearby harbors of Maine.

The new blast furnace plant will start producing at the rate of 150,000 tons of merchant pig iron a year. But it will be so designed that other furnaces may be added from time to time, and those who are interested in it feel certain that eventually they will be exporting pig iron from Boston.

At present the company will endeavor to give New England industries a high grade of pig iron. The stove foundries of Taunton, Wakefield and elsewhere, the big electrical works at Lynn and the shoe machinery works in Beverly, and smaller foundries everywhere in this community will find a supply of pig iron almost under their hand. Long freight hauls will be eliminated. Delays due to freight blockades, etc., will be avoided.

Even the great metal industries of Springfield, Pittsfield, Holyoke, Greenfield, Miller Falls and other points in the Connecticut valley will find a much nearer market than Youngstown, Ohio, or Buffalo, N. Y.

Providence, New Bedford, New London and other communities will be able to obtain pig iron by water transportation, if the project of a motor barge line to these ports, now talked of, materializes.

Ship repair and fuelling are important features in any port's equipment. Boston is especially well provided for in these matters.

There are eight drydocks in the harbor, five owned by private interests and three by the Navy Department. The latter are available to merchant shipping that cannot be accommodated in smaller drydocks.

There are several ship repair and shipbuilding plants. The two largest, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation plant on Weymouth Fore River and the Atlantic Works in East Boston, are equipped for jobs of any magnitude.

The seized German liners which were reconditioned after the war were parcelled out to various ports for reconversion from transports into ocean liners. The George Washington was allocated to Boston.

It is admitted that the George Washington was turned back to the Shipping Board in better condition than was the case in any other of the liners, and that she has given less trouble by reason of machinery breakdowns, faults in steam piping and plumbing or for any other cause than has any of the ships which were repaired elsewhere.

The George Washington is a monument to New England mechanical skill and thoroughness.

It is also worthy of comment that the cost of reconditioning the George Washington was less than that of other ships on which an equal amount of work was done.

Furthermore, the big ships which were allocated to other ports had to be brought to Boston in the end for drydocking and underbody repairs.

The Standard Oil Company, the Beacon Oil Company and the Mexican Petroleum Corporation all maintain big oil plants in Boston harbor. The oil comes here in tankers with capacities of one to two million gallons each.

At all times there is a more than adequate supply of fuel oil for ships, with equipment for rapidly filling fuel tanks.

There are four big coal companies equipped for bunkering coal-burning ships. Recently 4,000 tons of coal were stored in the bunkers of a big passenger liner in one day at the Commonwealth Pier in South Boston. The coal goes alongside in lighters which are specially equipped for swift work. Coalheavers swarm into the bunkers and the coal goes aboard in steady stream.

This article has merely skimmed the surface of the facilities for handling shipping at Boston. It is, of necessity, a generalization of the whole subject. The export shipper who reads it may say: "How about my particular needs? What can be done about the special service which New York affords me?"

The Boston American answers that it is more than likely that Boston can give him as good service as New York and save him time and money while doing it. For technical details write to the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Of one thing the shipper may be certain. If he combines with other shippers having similar needs, and will make them known, Boston will supply them.

If importers can use the port profitably, is it not reasonable to assume that exporters can also profit themselves by using their home port?

In the final analysis of the situation it all comes down to profit. If the port cannot be used with profit to the business of the community, and for the convenience of the people, it would be better to extend the Charles River esplanade clear around the city to Dorchester bay and turn the piers and docks into playgrounds.

Dr. Crane's article is on Page 13. The Help-in Hand is on Page 20.
